PREFACE

The opinions of the Court of Claims reported herein are published by authority of the provisions of Section 18 of the Court of Claims Act, 705 ILCS 505/1 et seq., formerly Ill. Rev. Stat. 1991, ch. 37, par. 439.1 et seq.

The Court of Claims has exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine the following matters: (a) all claims against the State of Illinois founded upon any law of the State, or upon any regulation thereunder by an executive or administrative officer or agency, other than claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act or the Workers' Occupational Diseases Act, or claims for certain expenses in civil litigation, (b) all claims against the State founded upon any contract entered into with the State, (c) all claims against the State for time unjustly served in prisons of this State where the persons imprisoned shall receive a pardon from the Governor stating that such pardon is issued on the grounds of innocence of the crime for which they were imprisoned, (d) all claims against the State in cases sounding in tort, (e) all claims for recoupment made by the State against any Claimant, (f) certain claims to compel replacement of a lost or destroyed State warrant, (g) certain claims based on torts by escaped inmates of State institutions, (h) certain representation and indemnification cases, (i) all claims pursuant to the Law Enforcement Officers, Civil Defense Workers, Civil Air Patrol Members, Paramedics, Firemen & State Employees Compensation Act, (j) all claims pursuant to the Illinois National Guardsman's Compensation Act, and (k) all claims pursuant to the Crime Victims Compensation Act.

A large number of claims contained in this volume have not been reported in full due to quantity and general similarity of content. These claims have been listed according to the type of claim or disposition. The categories they fall within include: claims in which orders of awards or orders of dismissal were entered without opinions, claims based on lapsed appropriations, certain State employees' back salary claims, prisoners and inmates-missing property claims, claims in which orders and opinions of denial were entered without opinions, refund cases, medical vendor claims, Law Enforcement Officers, Civil Defense Workers, Civil Air Patrol Members, Paramedics, Firemen & State Employees Compensation Act claims and certain claims based on the Crime Victims Compensation Act. However, any claim which is of the nature of any of the above categories, but which also may have value as precedent, has been reported in full.

REPORTED OPINIONS

FISCAL YEAR 2009

(July 1, 2008 thru June 30, 2009)

(No. 95-CC-3757 – Claim dismissed)

COMMERCE BANK, Administrator of the Estate of LOUISE OSBORN, Claimant, v. ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF CHILDREN AND FAMILY SERVICES, Respondent.

Opinion filed May 9, 2008
Order filed March 31, 2009

DOUGLAS N. KOTH, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (MELISSA ELLISON, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Exhaustion of Remedies-No frivolous or unreasonable action is required to be brought in order to comply with the exhaustion of remedies requirement.

Collateral Estoppel-Res Judicata-The Court had no authority to establish an individual duty owed to Claimant by DCFS in accord with prior holdings of the courts of general jurisdiction.

Agency-DCFS contracted its duties to Respondent who was found to be merely monitoring licensing standards, which was not indicative of an agency relationship.

ORDER

Jann, J.

This claim is before the Court on Respondent's Motion to Dismiss Claimant's Amended Complaint. This cause has proceeded through two trials and appeals on all underlying matters of fact and law against parties other than the State.

The parties have responded and submitted proofs at the Court's request. The Court requested oral argument and the parties presented their positions.

Respondent's Motion seeks dismissal for failure to exhaust remedies against parties previously adjudged immune from personal financial judgment and on a theory of collateral estoppel due to res judicata on the underlying facts and law by decisions rendered in courts of general jurisdiction.

The claim arises from the tragic death of a 3 year old girl who was placed in a foster home by Youth Services of Mid-Illinois (YSMI), a contract services provider, retained by DCFS and the State, Respondents herein. The foster parents were selected by YSMI and were to be monitored and supervised pursuant to YSMI's contract with DCFS.

Louise Osborn and her brother were placed in the same foster home by YSMI. Louise was left unattended by her foster parents for at least three hours on a very hot day. Little Louise somehow made her way into a closet where she crawled into a wooden storage unit, and eventually expired due to hyperthermia (heat stroke) and asphyxiation (lack of oxygen) per the coroner's report. The closet could not be opened from the interior door per the record.

The Amended Complaint filed by Claimant consists of six Counts, all of which are directed against DCFS. Counts I and II are directed against DCFS on a negligence theory. Counts III and IV are directed against DCFS alleging the principal agency relationship between the foster parents and DCFS. Counts V and VI are directed against DCFS alleging a principal agency relationship between Youth Services of Mid-Illinois and DCFS.

I. Failure to Exhaust Remedies.

We first address Respondent's Motion to Dismiss on exhaustion. Respondent's arguments as to the existence of a viable claim for willful and wanton negligence against the foster parents to defeat parental immunity is not persuasive. The record indicates Claimant attempted to present claims wherein recovery might be made under an insurance policy covering the foster house. While that fact is not determinative of the issue, in this particular fact scenario, it is to be considered under a theory that Claimant is obliged to seek any possible satisfaction or recovery before determination in this Court, allowing Respondent the benefit of any possible set-off per 74 Ill. Adm. Code 790.60.

The record indicates the Circuit Court's grant of parental immunity and an order of protection against personal liability of the Augsburgers, the foster parents, was a legal bar to any possible recovery against the Augsburgers for purposes of exhaustion of remedies prior to final adjudications of negligence in the McLean County Circuit Court trials preceding this action.

Rule 60 explicitly states "no frivolous or unreasonable action is required to be brought...in order to comply with the exhaustion of remedies requirement." 74 Ill. Adm. Code 790.60. (See Stupp Bros. Bridge & Iron Co. v. State (1998), 51 Ill Ct. Cl. 195).

II. Collateral Estoppel

Respondent's second basis for dismissal states that prior findings of fact and law in the trial courts, and decisions upon appeal, are binding upon this Court and as alleged against DCFS. Claimant is collaterally estopped from seeking remedy by the application of res judicata. Essentially, Respondent argues that Claimant's Amended complaint alleging negligence under a respondeat superior theory must fail because both the foster parents and YSMI obtained final judgments that no principal agency relationship existed between YSMI and the foster parents. If no principal agency relationship existed, as to those parties, no negligence arising from the relationship alleged as principal agency by Claimant may be imputed to Respondent on the same theory per the prior adjudication of the issue.

Claimant argues that because DCFS was not a party within the jurisdiction of the trial and reviewing Courts, there is a question of fact remaining on the principal agency issue. Claimant also asserts a non-delegable statutory duty was owed Louise by DCFS, and the adjudication of the negligence actions the foster parents and the placement agency which was contracted to supervise and assure compliance with DCFS regulations does not preclude an individual action against DCFS.

We have very carefully considered Claimant's arguments and authority for denial of Respondent's Motion. We have painstakingly reviewed both the procedural and legal history of this sad case. Despite our desire to do justice for a child denied the comforts and protection of a functional natural home life and perhaps foster neglect, we are unable to find a legal basis to preserve this action on the record presented.

All issues Claimant presents have been either fully adjudicated on the merits in courts of general jurisdiction or decided in significantly similar fact scenarios and contractual relationships by the Illinois Supreme Court and Illinois Appellate Courts for the theories of agency and imputed negligence to DCFS under respondeat superior underlying this claim. The issue of non-delegable duty of DCFS as argued by Claimant herein has also been expressly addressed by the Appellate and Illinois Supreme Courts. Respondent's arguments that all issues are collaterally estopped on the basis of res judicata, is supported by the following summary of the decisions in this claim as well as applicable precedent in very similar cases by our state courts of general jurisdiction.

1. Commerce Bank v. Augsburger, 288 Ill.App.3d 510,680 N.E.2d 822 (1997), (Commerce Bank I). The 4th District Appellate Court affirmed the Circuit Court's grant of parental immunity to Sarah Augsburger on the facts presented and based its decision on the inherent nature of the acts giving rise to the injury as being within the intimate framework of family life shared by both natural and foster parents. The Court summarized its basis for affirming the grant of immunity by stating "Foster parents are nearly as much in need of leeway [in regard to the supervision and discipline of children under their care] as are natural parents". Id. at 517, and as cited as Accord in Wallace v. Smyth, 203 Ill 2d 441, 786 NE 2d 980 (2002).

2. The McLean County Circuit Court dismissed Claimant's respondeat superior claims, but allowed the negligence claims against YSMI, the foster placement contractor, to proceed to verdict. YSMI was found not negligent.

3. Claimant appealed the single issue of dismissal of its respondeat superior claims. The 4th District reversed and remanded the question of agency or master servant between the foster parents and the contractor for trial in the circuit court in Commerce Bank II, (slip decision No 4-98-0833, August 10, 1999, unpublished order pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 23).

4. The McLean County jury trial, on the remand, found Sarah Augsburger, the foster mother, negligent, and her negligence had proximately caused Louise Osborn's death. The jury further found that Sarah Augsburger was an agent of YSMI. An award of $640,000.00 was entered against YSMI on respondeat superior grounds for wrongful death and survival in the verdict.

5. YSMI appealed to the 4th District Appellate Court upon the denial of its motions for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and for a new trial in Commerce Bank v. Youth Service of Mid-Illinois, Inc., 333 Ill. App. 3d 150, 156 (2002), (Commerce Bank III). The Fourth District considered the explicit question of whether the facts of record supported the jury's finding that YSMI was a principal or employer of Sarah Augsburger, and examined the discrete duties of YSMI and the foster parents, and the role of DCFS to arrive at their decision. The Court examined the issues of whether Sarah Augsburger was an independent contractor, and whether YSMI could claim derivative immunity if an agency or master servant relationship was found to exist between YSMI and the foster parent, given the court had previously denied grant of government immunity to the foster parents, but granted parental immunity when the case was remanded for trial on proof of agency and imputed negligence to YSMI under respondeat superior.

6. The majority in Commerce Bank III held that the Illinois Supreme Court's decision in Nichol v. Stass, 192 Ill.2d 233, 239, 735 N.E.2d 582, 587 (2000), (Nichol II) was determinative of the issue of agency status of a foster parent. The summary entitled Background which begins the Opinion for the majority by Justice Cook is instructive as to the general position of the court, later affirmed, as to the relative duties of the respective parties in this claim. "..... Defendant provided services to the children, created plans, distributed state money to the foster parents, and monitored the foster parents, all pursuant to DCFS regulations. In other words, defendant acted in DCFS' place. The only duties which DCFS reserves for itself in cases like this are the licensing of the foster parents and the initial removal of the children from their homes that places them in the state custody. DCFS also handles court appearances.”

The Court acknowledged that while the nature of the supervision, monitoring, and provision of care was traditionally indicative of an agency relationship under Illinois law and precedent, the Nichol II decision was controlling because the duties of YSMI were derived from responsibilities DCFS had contracted for pursuant to its statutory obligation to establish regulations and rules for the protection of wards of the State, and fell within the Nichol II decision's holding that the contractor was merely “monitoring licensing standards set by DCFS regulation at 89 Ill. Adm. Code §402.”

The Court further held:

“ . . . in every area where defendant (YSMI) could exercise control over the Augsburgers, defendant was merely monitoring licensing standards set by DCFS regulations.” . . .

“There was also uncontradicted testimony that every interaction defendant had with the Augsburgers was dictated by DCFS regulations. If DCFS had been monitoring the Augsburgers in the case, the Augsburgers would not have been agents of DCFS despite the amount of control the regulations gave DCFS over the Augsburgers' day-to-day parenting. See Nichol, 192 2d at 240, 735 N.E.2d at 587.

By merely acting in accordance with DCFS regulations, defendant did not have the right to exercise any more control over the Augsburgers than DCFS would have if it were providing services directly. The defendant in this case was essentially acting in DCFS' place. Pursuant to the Illinois Supreme Court's decision in Nichol, if there is no proof that defendant was exercising control over the Augsburgers beyond merely subjecting them to DCFS regulations, then an agency relationship has not been provided in this case. Nichol, 192 Ill.2d at 240, 735 N.E.2d at 587. Therefore, since there was no evidence that defendant exercised day-to-day control over the Augsburgers' parenting beyond merely subjecting them to DCFS regulations, the jury's finding of an agency relationship cannot stand.” Id., 156.

7. Claimant appealed the adverse holding of the 4th District.

The Illinois Supreme Court considered the issue of whether YSMI should be vicariously liable for negligence of Sarah Augsburger under the doctrine of respondeat superior upon review of the sufficiency of the evidence underlying the 4th District's ruling. The Supreme Court issued an Opinion filed March 18, 2004 (which it stated had no precedential value) in No. 94830 Commerce Bank v. Youth Services of Mid-Illinois, Inc. announcing "because one Justice recused herself and the remaining Justices could not reach agreement, the Appellate Court decision is being allowed to stand."

8. The Appellate Court in Commerce Bank I specifically noted Claimant had made no attempt to defeat the grant of parental immunity to the Augsburgers. Hence, no allegations relating to the various exceptions negating parental immunity as set out in Nichol II, such as willful and wanton conduct, may be asserted in this claim for Sarah Augsburgers' negligence. The grant of parental immunity was affirmed on appeal and governmental immunity was specifically rejected as applying to Augsburger, as was an agency or employment relationship with YSMI arising from compensation as a foster parent. The findings in Commerce Bank III, remain undisturbed, and affirmed. Commerce Bank III also stated that if DCFS had been monitoring the foster parents in this case, the foster parents would not have been agents of the state despite the amount of control and supervision the regulations gave DCFS over the Augsburgers day-to-day parenting by virtue of DCFS statutory authority.

The Supreme Court subsequently determined that parental immunity did not apply to a residential child care facility in Wallace v. Smyth. The majority reasoned that while the parental immunity doctrine logically reaches foster parents, it cannot stretch to cover a corporate entity and its employees. The Court distinguished the professional staff of a residential facility exercising their professional duties in handling state wards from those of parents, despite the similarities of their responsibilities.

We find the prior holdings of the courts of general jurisdiction to be controlling as res judicata in this claim which deprives this court of jurisdiction, as there is no authority to establish an individual duty owed Claimant by DCFS, or how negligence may be imputed to DCFS on the law and record.

We must agree with Claimant's contention that current applicable precedent may severely limit opportunities for recovery when a foster parent is granted parental immunity in like circumstances. The respective dissent of Justice Myerscough in Commerce Bank III, and Justice Freeman's special concurrence in Wallace v. Smyth, citing his dissent in Nichol, 192 Ill.2d at 253-73, certainly indicate that Claimant's theory that foster parents should not enjoy parental immunity has been debated repeatedly. Only Justice Myerscough's dissent in Commerce III supports the seminal issue Claimant presents now on primarily equitable grounds. Justice Myerscough's dissent rejected the majority's findings that YSMI "did not have the right to exercise any more control over the Augsburgers than DCFS would have had if it were providing services directly. Slip op. at 9. Justice Myerscough found the record on the extent of YSMI's control over the Augsburgers required a finding that YSMI acted independently to determine whether DCFS regulations were being followed by the Augsburgers, and YSMI made the determination of when and on what basis reports were made to DCFS. Hence, the Justice reasoned the trial court's jury finding of the existence of an agency relationship established on the record, and imputing negligence to YSMI for the foster parent's neglect should have been affirmed. The dissent was narrowly drawn on the facts and proofs presented which suggested that YSMI had failed to follow DCFS regulations for reporting or supervision as an independent contractor.

Justice Freeman's special concurrence in Wallace, references his prior dissent in Nichol II, at 272-73. Justice Freeman's dissent in Nichol argued that there are very distinct differences between foster parents and natural parents to be considered in extending the status of in loco parentis status for a foster child to a foster parent. Justice Freeman noted the obvious supervisory and contractual aspects of the relationship which are not those of a natural parent, and emphasized the fact that foster parents do not stand in loco parentis to a foster child because they do not take upon themselves the financial obligations of a parent. The Justice went on to caution that unintended consequences might arise by extending the status to foster parents, and invite others in similar or less intimate child welfare roles to assert the same privilege and immunity. The Justice was certainly proved correct on his prognostication, as illustrated by Wallace, wherein a corporate child welfare entity sought immunity. Justice Freeman objected to the majority's artificial distinction between foster parents and institutional care providers of child welfare services in deciding Maryville Academy was not entitled to the same immunity enjoyed by the Augsburgers and other foster parents given the parallel nature of the relationships and financial compensation for services rendered. Justice Freeman repeated his contention that neither foster parents, nor institutions, or corporate entities should be allowed to claim immunity. Hence, though the majority reached the correct conclusion in denying immunity, the decision was based on a prior erroneous decision creating the judicial distinction.

We wish to acknowledge and applaud Mr. Douglas Koth's advocacy and tenacity in this claim for a child he never knew. In Mr. Koth, Louise Osborn at last found the champion and protector denied her in an all too short life, and her tragic demise. No higher purpose may be served by our legal profession than the representation of those who cannot speak for themselves or act to protect themselves. Every child deserves loving care, protection from harm and the comfort of a safe home. Mr. Koth clearly has acted upon this laudable tenet. We are grateful for his service on behalf of Louise Osborn. Our decision is based purely upon the law and facts, and in no way upon any failure by Mr. Koth to prosecute this claim.

Based upon the above analysis, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

Respondent's Motion to Dismiss for failure to exhaust remedies is DENIED.

Respondent's Motion to Dismiss based upon our collateral estoppel holdings as cited in Sabarra v. State (1995), 47 Ill.Ct.Cl. 321,323, is GRANTED.

ORDER

Jann, J.

Upon review of the pleadings the Court ORDERS:

Claimant's Motion for Rehearing is denied as all matters raised were fully considered in our prior dismissal of this claim. This cause is dismissed with prejudice.

Assumption of Risk-Bicyclist injured at State park. The State did not willfully and wantonly fail to maintain the premises; Claimant assumed the risk by traveling at excessive speeds.

ORDER

Jann, J.

This claim is before the Court following an evidentiary hearing on October 19, 2006, before the assigned Commissioner.

Claimant, a minor, by his father, James R. Miller, filed his complaint for $100,000 in damages for injuries sustained in a bicycle accident at Argyle State Park (hereinafter referred to as the “Park”) on September 9, 1996. The Claimant alleges the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (hereinafter referred to as “DNR”), “willfully and wantonly” failed to maintain and control the “Park” by placing exposed “rebar” from “riprap” or concrete barriers in a recreational area the Respondent knew, or should have known, was frequented by both children and adults on bicycles. The concrete barriers were placed along a water runoff area, away from the bicycle path, to prevent flooding and soil erosion following heavy rains. Respondent alleges the Claimant assumed the risk while traveling at excessive speed, lost control of his bicycle, left the bicycle path and ventured into a drainage area clearly not intended for bicycle riders. Claimant filed the present complaint with the Court of Claims on March 12, 1998.

FACTS

At the hearing, Claimant presented undisputed evidence that he suffered substantial injuries with medical bills in excess of $100,000, as a direct result of racing his bicycle downhill and running off the bicycle path and falling into the drainage area. The Respondent produced Tom levy, Public Service Administrator at Starved Rock State Park, as a witness who testified that the bicycle path in question was regularly used for bicycle enthusiasts with a posted speed limit of 10 miles per hour. He further testified that “riprap” or concrete barriers were installed at the “Park” to prevent flooding and soil erosion due to heavy rains. He further testified that “rebar” or iron bars were not regularly removed from “riprap”. He further testified that approximately 300,000 people visit the park on an annual basis and to his knowledge and recollection, no other accidents of this nature have been reported to the park service.

Claimant produced Ty Arnold, longtime friend of Jonathan Miller, who testified Claimant was training for an upcoming bicycle race and while racing downhill fell off the bicycle path and ran into the “riprap” and “rebar” material sustaining multiple injuries. Claimant also produced, Charles Scott Carpenter, a professional engineer with the Illinois Department of Transportation (“IDOT”). He testified that “IDOT” is responsible for all roads and bridges in the State of Illinois and has specifications for the use of “riprap”. He further testified that exposed “rebar” is usually removed from “riprap”. Counsel for the Respondent objected to this testimony as irrelevant to the issue of how “DNR” maintains its parks. The Commissioner sustained Respondent’s objection because “IDOT” is a separate agency and is not responsible for maintaining parks under “DNR” management. Claimant also produced James Bragdon, as his expert witness who testified Respondent’s erosion control methods were evidence of a “willful and wanton” breach of the standard of care owed users of the States Parks.

ISSUE

Did the use of “riprap”, with exposed “rebar” material, constitute a “willful and wanton” breach of the standard of care by Argyle State Park and the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (“DNR”) and as such, was the use of such material the proximate cause of Claimant’s injuries?

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The law is well settled that visitors to State parks are invitees to whom the State owes a duty of reasonable care in maintaining the premises. Wrightman v. State (1978), 32 Ill Ct. Cl, 546-547. The Court further stated that “this Court has held that the State of Illinois is not the insurer of safety of persons who visit its parks and recreation areas” In Pearlman v. State (1979), 33 Ill Ct. Cl 28,31, the Court again reiterated that,

“The State of Illinois is not an insurer and before the Respondent can be liable for Claimant’s injury it must be shown by the preponderance or the greater weight of the evidence that a dangerous and defective condition existed*** and that the Respondent knew or should have known of said defective and dangerous condition”

Claimant has alleged, in his Amended Complaint, that the Respondent’s conduct was “willful and wanton” Sherman v. State, 61 Ill Ct. Cl. 230 (1998). To prevail upon the merits of his claim, Claimant must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that by its methods of providing erosion control by using “riprap” and “rebar” materials, Respondent acted in a “willful and wanton” manner thereby breaching the standard of care owed to Claimant.

In the Sherman case, an injured bicyclist’s claim was denied after he struck a cable wire strung across a bike trail. The Court held that a “willful and wanton” injury must have been intentional or the act must have been committed under circumstances exhibiting a reckless disregard for the safety of others, such as a failure after knowledge of impending danger, to exercise ordinary care to prevent it, or a failure to discover the danger through recklessness or carelessness when it could have been discovered by the exercise of ordinary care. Under Sherman, Claimant must prove that Respondent either knew or failed to discover that its erosion methods were a danger to intended users of the roadway as a result of recklessness or carelessness.

In the case at bar, Ty Arnold, (Claimant’s friend) testified Claimant was preparing for a bicycle race at the “Park” and was racing downhill exceeding the posted 10 m.p.h. speed limit. Due to his excessive speed, Claimant lost control of his bicycle, fell off the road and into the “riprap” and “rebar” erosion control drainage area. He further testified both he and Claimant used this bicycle path on at least 20 other occasions. Tom Levy (Administrator of Argyle State Park) testified that over 300,000 people visit the “Park” annually and no incidents or injuries of this nature had been reported to the park service. Mr. Levy further testified that “DNR” staff placed the “riprap” material in the drainage ditch in an effort to control flooding and soil erosion.

The Respondent has asked the Court to consider the case of DiBenedetto v. Flora Township, 153 Ill 2d. 66, 605 N E 2nd 571, 178 Ill Dec 777 (1992). In DiBenedetto, the Illinois Supreme Court upheld the trial court’s decision that the burden which would be imposed upon the State to make roadside drainage ditches safe for motorists who stray from the traveled way was of such a great magnitude that no duty was owed to plaintiff. The drainage ditch was there to protect against flooding and not designed for traffic. The court held that the proximate cause of the accident was not the ditch, but the loss of control of the vehicle by the driver going off road.

Here, Claimant by traveling at excessive speed, lost control of his bicycle and fell into a drainage area not intended for bicycle traffic. There is no persuasive evidence that use of the materials at issue to prevent erosion was a danger to persons using the roadway at the speeds posted, or that an accepted standard of care for similar purpose in a State Park was violated. Claimant’s expert testimony as to IDOT practice and protocol for roadways used for general travel versus the limited recreational purpose intended for roadways in most State Parks, is not persuasive to the facts presented. The intent of a natural preserve is to maintain the most “natural” flora and fauna possible without the installation of standard roadways with wide shoulders, drainage culverts in shiny galvanized ribbed metal sticking out of bucolic settings, flashing lights to remind the careless that when one climbs to the top of a cliff, there is a probable danger if one chooses to ignore the obvious, and there is a plausible and persuasive argument that if one chooses to venture into areas posted as restricted or use the roadways in a manner directly and specifically prohibited, one is at his personal peril for the consequences of his own acts. One, even if a minor, is generally deemed to have sufficient mental capacity to ascertain normal risks under Illinois law, unless there is proof of special and verifiable naiveté or diminished capacity of record for a person of the Claimant’s age and experience.

Claimant’s witness also testified that he and Claimant were familiar with the alleged danger from numerous prior outings on the same path, and that Claimant was clearly traveling in excess of reasonable speed given the posted limit, and failed to exercise due care for his personal safety on the facts of record. As such, the proximate cause of Claimant’s injuries was not the “riprap” or “rebar” material, but Claimant’s inability to exercise control of his bicycle while traveling downhill at excessive speed and as a direct result, he fell off the bicycle path into the drainage ditch area. Claimant was not riding a bike for the first time, nor riding this path for the first time. He was racing and had done so previously in abrogation of known speed limits and observed danger for the acts he undertook, and had a reasonable expectation of injury if he chose to abuse and misuse the provided amenities of the Park for the purposes intended for invitees.

WHEREFORE, Claimant has failed to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondent acted in a “willful and wanton” manner by intentionally creating a dangerous condition with a reckless disregard for the safety of others.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that this claim is denied and dismissed with prejudice on the merits. Claimant’s claims presented under ordinary negligence were previously dismissed on Respondent’s Motion under the Recreational Use of Land and Waters Act as is referenced in the record. This cause is denied and closed.

ORDER

Jann, J.

This cause is before the Court on Claimant’s Motion for Rehearing after denial of his claim and Respondent’s Objections with a Response by Claimant.

Claimant asserts that the Court failed to consider all evidence in its decision denying the claim. We conclude Claimant has not presented evidence or law to compel a rehearing after review.

It appears Claimant has not accepted the legal consequences of admissions and proofs or the required standard for proof of willful and wanton neglect by a State Park.

Simply put, Claimant now attempts to impute an extraordinary duty of care owed him because he was practicing for a bike race in the future.

The race was granted a permit for limited use. Claimant was not on September 6, 1996.

Claimant's Motion for Rehearing is DENIED after review, and our Opinion of denial of the underlying claims and dismissal with prejudice is AFFIRMED and this cause is closed.

JACALYNNE HANNON, Claimant, v. ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION, Respondent.

Opinion filed April 26, 2005
Opinion filed October 16, 2008

MICHAEL K. DEMETRIO, for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (HELEN AAVIK, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Damages-The $100,000 limit prescribed by the Section does not apply to an award of damages in any case sounding in tort arising out of the operation by a State employee of a vehicle owned, leased or controlled by the State.

Damages-To remove the $100,000 damage limitation the vehicle must be in the active exercise of some function by performing work or producing effects at the time and place of the injury. An accident caused by piles of snow does not fall into this category when the snowplow was not present.

OPINION

Sprague, C.J.

In this case the State has filed a Motion to Dismiss Claimant’s Complaint alleging that the accident did not arise out of the operation of a motor vehicle and that Claimant had settled a case in Circuit Court for an amount in excess of $100,000.

Claimant’s Complaint alleges that on or prior to January 20, 1999 the State undertook to plow snow for LaGrange Road at or near its intersection with 165th Street in the City of Orland Park, Illinois. The Complaint further alleges that the State piled the snow in mounds at intersections. It is further alleged that the mounds of snow obstructed the view of motorists traveling on the intersecting streets. Claimant claims she was injured when her vehicle was struck by another vehicle in the intersection as a result of the snow piles blocking the vision of the driver of the other vehicle.

The issue involved in the Motion to Dismiss is the language in 705 ILCS (d) 505/8(d) which reads: “The $100,000 limit prescribed by the Section does not apply to an award of damages in any case sounding in tort arising out of the operation by a State employee of a vehicle owned, leased or controlled by the State.” Claimant relies on the case of Schuett v. State of Illinois, 37 Ill. Ct. Cl. 61 (1984). The facts in that case are similar to this one in that a driver was injured because the piles of snow created by snowplowing obstructed the vision of both drivers involved in the accident. This Court correctly ruled that Claimant was entitled to receive an award. However, that case did not answer the question presented by this case concerning the $100,000 limitation on liability.

There are no Illinois cases directly dealing with this issue. In the case of Chilcote v. San Bernardino County, 218 Cal. 444, 23 P. 2d 748 (1933), the California Supreme Court held that to be in operation within a statute rendering a county liable for injuries from the negligent operation of a county motor vehicle by county employees, the vehicle must be in the active exercise of some specific function by performing work or producing effects at the time and place the injury is inflicted. In that case the Court denied recovery for a motorcyclist's death from encountering pools of oil spread on the highway by county's oil truck. In the case of Mount Pleasant Independent School District v. Estate of Lindburg, 766 S.W. 2d 208 (1989), the Supreme Court of Texas held that the evidence did not demonstrate as a matter of law that a student's death was caused by "operation or use of a motor-driven vehicle," and recovery against the state was barred. The student was killed while crossing the highway after the bus had dropped her off and had proceeded 100 to 200 yards from her.

This Court finds the reasoning of these two cases persuasive. To remove the $100,000 damage limitation the vehicle must be in the active exercise of some function by performing work or producing effects at the time and place of the injury. To hold otherwise could create some ridiculous results. For example, the liability limit could be lifted from an injury caused by a pothole in the road that was not properly repaired because the crew that repaired it drove a truck. The liability limit could be lifted for a traffic signal failing to properly work because the crew that installed it drove a truck. A lot of different scenarios could be thought of to nullify the liability limit.

In this case the snow plow was not in the active exercise of some specific function by performing work or producing effects at the time and the place of the injury. Therefore it is ordered that the limit of liability in this case is $100,000. The Motion to Dismiss is not granted at this time because the Court feels there is no clear evidence in the record that shows exactly what the Circuit Court settlement was. If the settlement was in excess of $100,000 the Motion to Dismiss will be granted.

ORDER

Sprague, C.J.

The parties have filed a joint stipulation showing that the settlement in Circuit Court was in excess of One Hundred Thousand Dollars. It is hereby ordered that the above case is dismissed pursuant to the Court Order dated April 26, 2005.

MARION and ALLAN MAPEL, Claimant, v. ILLINOIS STATE UNIVERSITY, Respondent.

Opinion filed July 22, 2008.

HELEN E. OGAR, Counsel for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (BRADLEY R. BUCHER, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Negligence - elements of claim. To prevail in a negligence claim, the Claimant must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the Respondent had a duty toward the Claimant, that Respondent breached that duty, that the negligence of Respondent was a proximate cause of the Claimant's injury and the Claimant's damages, and the Claimant must also prove that the Respondent had actual or constructive knowledge of the dangerous condition.

Negligence - burden of proof. The Claimant has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondent breached its duty of care, that Claimant was free of contributory negligence in line with our decisions on comparative negligence, that the negligence of Respondent proximately caused the injury, and that the State had actual or constructive notice of the dangerous conditions from all of the circumstances of the case.

Unreasonably dangerous condition - The existence of this lift, positioned between the two walls of the rear of the stage is not a dangerous condition, merely because Claimant was injured at this location. The intended purpose for this lift is for moving heavy equipment to and from the stage. It is not a people mover. "Unreasonable dangerous condition" has been defined as a product which is dangerous because it fails to perform in the manner reasonable to be expected in light of its nature and intended function.

Notice of unreasonable dangerous condition - At issue is whether or not notice to Respondent of a dangerous condition is necessary for recovery.

Contributory negligence - The Court must also review the Claimant's conduct leading up to her injury to determine if Claimant's actions contributed to her injuries. If Claimant is found to be contributory negligent for her injuries, in a percentage greater than 50%, she will be barred from recovering damages. 735 ILCS 5/2-1116(c).

Loss of Consortium - The Court must also weigh the evidence presented on the loss of consortium claim presented by Claimant, Allan Mapel. Claimant's claim for damages due to loss of consortium is subject to reduction by the percentage of fault attributed to the injured spouse. Claimant, Allan Mapel's $15,000.00 claim for loss of consortium must be reduced if the Court determines that Claimant, Marion Mapel, is contributorily negligent.

OPINION

Reid, J.

Claimants, Marion Mapel and Allan Mapel, bring this action for injuries sustained by Marion Mapel at Illinois State University's Bone Student Center stage area while she was working a fund-raising event for Claimant's employer on September 7, 1997. This fund-raising event was sponsored by the United Way organization wherein several local businesses, including Claimant's employer, were performing acts or skits for the charity. Claimant was positioned behind the stage area to assist her employer with certain props that were being used for their skit. As the skit concluded, Claimant was one of several individuals responsible for quickly removing a large number of boxes from the stage in order to make room for the next skit. Claimant was the final member of a "bucket brigade," formed to remove these boxes. As the Claimant hurriedly stacked boxes that she received from her team members, she continued moving deeper into the unlit rear corner of the stage. Ultimately, Claimant, being unfamiliar with this stage, stepped backwards onto an elevator lift that was raised flush with the stage floor. As she continued stacking boxes on this lift, Claimant stepped further backwards off of the lift. As a result, the Claimant fell and wedged herself in a 6 to 10 inch gap that existed between the lift and a doorway. As a result of this fall, Claimant suffered bruises and abrasions to her body, but no broken bones.

Respondent, Illinois State University, was not informed of this incident until several days later when Claimant called Illinois State University's office of Environmental Health and Safety to notify them of her alleged injuries. Claimant presented no evidence that Respondent had any involvement with the United Way production, or any of the skits, or the conditions that existed at the rear of the stage. Claimant merely pointed to the 6 to 10 inch gap at the end of the lift and claimed this to be a dangerous condition. Respondent has received no other complaints regarding the lift in question, nor were any other prior incidents reported to Respondent involving the lift since its installation.

Claimant, Marion maple seeks $75,000.00 in compensation for her pain and suffering and medical bills not otherwise covered by her worker's compensation claim. The Claimant, Marion Mapel , received $13,194.00 for loss of income and for the permanent damage to her body in a case filed against her employer, Bromenn Healthcare, in the State of Illinois Industrial Commission, Case No. 97-WC-62881. Also, Claimant, Allan Maple, seeks $15,000.00 for his loss of consortium because of his spouse's inability to perform some activities post accident that she was previously able to perform. In addition, Allan Maple claims to have lost the benefit and frequency of sexual activity with his spouse due to the accident.

The court must also address issues of setoff and contributory negligence in rendering a decision in this matter.

THE FACTS AT TRIAL

In the early morning of September 17, 1997, Claimant was at the Illinois State University Bone Student Center on behalf of her employer, Bromenn Hospital. Bromenn was one of several organizations putting on skits for the event which was characterized as a United Way fund-raiser. United Way was running the entire program. Claimant could provide no evidence that Respondent had any involvement with the directing of personnel on this stage. Claimant did not pursue any type of action against United Way. Claimant was not a participant in the Bromenn skit, but was assisting its production from the rear of the stage. The part of the stage was behind the curtains in a dimly lit area.

At the conclusion of the Bromenn skit, Claimant was involved with a rapid prop removal from the stage, in order to make way for the next skit. Claimant testified to a question in part as follows:

Q. What did you do in terms of removing the boxes?

A. It seemed like help came out of everywhere because it was anybody behind the stage who had even maybe the next skit in preparation for themselves. They were taking the boxes which we had then carried one at a time during the development of the skit, now were coming off in mass. So instead of going out kind of one at a time, they were coming back quickly, and they were all coming at me, and I was the furthest one back, so it was, "here, take these, take these, take these. Get them off, get them off stage. Come on, we got to get them off." And I was backing as the boxes were coming at me, kind of stacking them inside themselves, and backing up."

Claimant indicated that this process was very rushed. The Claimant was backing into the direction she was going, not looking as she proceeded deeper into the corner of the stage. Eventually, Claimant backed herself into the far rear corner of the stage, onto the lip and off of the back edge of the lift, wedging herself in small gap between the back edge and a doorway.

Following the event, Claimant drove herself back to work and later that morning went to the emergency room. No expert medical testimony was presented at the hearing. Claimant testified that she experienced bruising, but no broken bones. Claimant testified about the various aches and pains that she experienced in the months following the incident. Radiological findings from BroMenn Healthcare indicate that Claimant has attributes of degenerative changes to the hip, pelvis, sacroiliac joints and right knee. These findings make no mention of any acute injury as a result of this accident.

Claimant provided evidence of various doctor's visits and bills for the four months following the incident, totaling $3,102.53. Claimant testified that about one (1) week of work was missed; but provided no evidence of any monetary value. Claimant concluded her testimony by claiming that certain hip and leg pain, including "charley horses," continue to occur, some nine years after the incident. Claimant provided no medical records or expert medical testimony to indicate that anything she has experienced beyond four months post-accident had any correlation to the incident. In fact, Claimant testified that the last time she visited a physician regarding this incident was within a few months following her injury, thus 1997 or early 1998.

Donald Kunde, assistant director of Illinois State University's Office of Environmental Health and Safety, testified that Illinois State University first received notice on Claimant's incident on September 22, 1997, four days after it occurred. Mr. Kunde testified that the lift is designed for moving heavy equipment on and off the stage and there have been no prior injuries involving the lift.

Claimant submitted a cover page of an installation and service manual for the lift that exists at the Bone Student Center. However, Claimant provided no evidence as to the installation instructions, options, models or variables contained in the manual. Mr. Kunde had no knowledge as to whether certain components (rails or chains) ever existed on the lift or were removed at some later time. He concluded his testimony by stating in response to a question as follows:

Q. If a person were walking – watching where they were going walking forward, and they were on a lift - you talked about before entering the lift. If they were actually on the lift and looking forward watching where they were going, would you think that they would see the gap in between the end of the elevator lift and the door?

A. Yes

Claimant, Allen Mapel, offered testimony that the injuries to his wife caused him to incur damages under the theory of loss of consortium.

ANALYSIS

Claimants suggest several different theories upon which they assert that Respondent should be held liable for their injuries.

First, with regard to the lift itself, Claimants assert that it is a dangerous condition of which Respondent was on notice. The burden of proof for this claim is on Marion Mapel and Allan Mapel. “The claimant has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that respondent breached its duty of care, that claimant was free of contributory negligence in line with our decisions on comparative negligence, that the negligence of respondent proximately caused the injury, and that the State had actual or constructive notice of the dangerous conditions from all of the circumstances of the case.” Steger v. State of Illinois, 46 Ill.Ct.Cl. 262 (1993).

Initially, Respondent contends that the existence of the lift, positioned between the two walls of the rear of the stage is not a dangerous condition, merely because Claimant was injured there. The intended purpose for the lift is for moving heavy equipment to and from the stage. It is not a people mover. “unreasonable dangerous condition” has been defined as a product which is dangerous because it fails to perform in the manner reasonable to be expected in light of its nature and intended function. Hunt v. Blasius, 74 Ill.2d 203 (1978).

The question was posed as to whether or not the State was on notice that any dangerous condition existed at the stage. The testimony of Respondent’s witness Kunde indicated that he had no record of any previous accidents involving the lift. This Court has noted that the absence of a prior accident is a factor in establishing notice. See Sewell v. Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University, 32 Ill.Ct.Cl. 430 (1979). (no prior accidents involving wheel chair students was a factor for the court when considering whether the State knew, or should have known, of a dangerous condition).

Claimants next allege that Respondent was negligent by not providing proper lighting in the rear area of the stage and not closing the gate that blocked the lift. Under both allegations, it should be incumbent upon Claimants to prove that Respondent had exclusive control of these factors. The evidence was to the contrary since the Claimant testified that United Way was “running the show.” Claimant stated that numerous people were backstage during this event, but she could not recall the presence of anyone affiliated with the University. Based upon the record, the conditions on the stage were not within the exclusive control of Respondent.

Further, the Claimants chose to to pursue an action against other potentially culpable parties, including United Way.

Court of Claims rule 790.60 provides in pertinent part as follows:

Sec. 790.60 Exhaustion of Remedies. As required by Section 25 of the Court of Claims Act [705 ILCS 505/25], the Claimant shall, before seeking final determination of his claim before the Court of Claims, exhaust all other remedies, whether administrative, legal or equitable, against all other sources of recovery for the injury or damages sought to be recovered by the claim, provided that no frivolous or unreasonable action is required to be brought against any third party in order to comply with this exhaustion of remedies requirement...

Accordingly, the “exhaustion of remedies” provision requires the Claimant to first pursue a claim against United Way or other potentially culpable parties before bringing an action against the Respondent.

Finally, Claimant alleges that Respondent somehow modified the lift after it was purchased, and this modification was negligent. Claimants state: “Mr. Kunde, an Illinois State University employee, agreed that the side rails were removed, as were the safety chains.” However, no such statement by Mr. Kunde could be found in the record. Mr. Kunde confirmed that Claimant’s Exhibit 2 was the front page of the installation and service manual for the lift. Mr. Kunde also confirmed that the photo on this front page had side rails and chains that were not present on the Illinois State University lift. However, since the entire installation and service manual was not presented into evidence, it is not known what the instructions, options, models or variables were applicable at Illinois State University. Mr. Kunde specifically stated that he had no knowledge as to whether the lift at Illinois State University ever had rails or chains. Thus, no evidence exists that these terms were at some point “removed” by Respondent as alleged, and the Claimants did not meet their burden of proof on this issue.

CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE

The Court must also review the Claimant's conduct leading up to her injury to determine if Claimant's actions contributed to her injuries.

Admitted into evidence was Exhibit 6 which described witness Karen Daudelin's, characterization of the events which led up to the accident as follows:

The lift was in the up position and the doors were closed. The lady (Claimant) was standing on the lift stacking the boxes and stepped backwards off the lift and fell in a standing position between the lift and the doors...

Claimant was in a dimly lit area at the rear of the state, hurriedly stacking boxes being thrown at her by a "brigade," and backing deeper into the corner admittedly without watching where she was going.

If Claimant is found to be contributory negligent for her injuries, in a percentage greater than 50%, she will be barred from recovering damages. 735 ILCS 5/2-1116(c). Based on the evidence the Court also finds that the Claimant, Marion Mapel, was contributory negligent in a percentage greater than 50% for her injuries.

LOSS OF CONSORTIUM

The Court must also weigh the evidence presented on the loss of consortium claim presented by Claimant, Allan Mapel.

Recovery for loss of consortium is subject to reduction by the percentage of fault attributed to the injured spouse. Blagg v. Illinois FWD Trucker Equipment Co., 143 Ill. 2d 188 (1991). Claimant, Allan Mapel's, $15,000.00 claim for loss of consortium must be reduced if the Court determines that Claimant, Marion Mapel, is contributory negligent. Since the Court has found that the Respondent was not negligent and the Claimant, Marion maple, was contributorily negligent in a percentage greater than 50% for her injuries, this claim is denied.

DAMAGES

Claimant, Marion Mapel, presented medical bills relating to her injury totaling $3,102.53. She testified that she missed one (1) week of work but offered no value of loss of income. She was, however, awarded an Illinois Industrial Commission Worker's Compensation award of $13,194.00 which was for compensation for loss of income and for the permanent damage to her body although the worker's compensation award was never entered into evidence. Claimant offered no other evidence pertaining to any special damages incurred as a result of her injuries. The Claimant asks the Court to award her $75,000.00 based on the claim presented. In addition, the Claimant testified as to bruising and abrasions, but the Claimant suffered no broken bones and offered no medical testimony pertaining to the medical conditions surrounding the Claimant's injuries. Also, there was no evidence as to the permanency or prognosis of Claimant's injuries. Based upon the findings in this case and the award in the worker's compensation claim which was for loss of income and for the permanent damage to her body, it would be improper for this Court to award Claimant any compensation for loss of income, for further medical expenses or for pain and suffering.

Medical support of prognosis or permanency of one's injuries must be medically supported and be close in time to the offered medical testimony. Knight v. Lord, 271 Ill. App. 3d 581 (1995). Finally, any finding of damages should be reduced by Claimant's contributory negligence, if any, and should be totally disallowed if her negligence exceeds 50%, since the Claimant's contributory negligence exceeds 50% in this case, there can be no award for damages. Also, the claim of Allan Mapel for loss of consortium is denied due to the finding of no negligence by the Respondent and the finding that his spouse's contributory negligence exceeds 50%.

It is hereby ordered that the relief requested in the Claimant's Complaint is DENIED.

Negligence-Premises Liability Act-The State, as owner of the premises, owes a duty to persons lawfully on the premises to use reasonable care in keeping the premises reasonably safe for use.

Negligence-Premises Liability Act-Burden of Proof-Plaintiff has the burden of proving: (1) the existence of a condition that presents an unreasonable risk of harm to persons on the premises; (2) that the Defendants knew, or should have known, that the condition posed an unreasonable risk of harm; (3) that the Defendants should have anticipated that individuals on the premises would fail to discover or recognize the danger or otherwise fail to protect themselves against it; (4) a negligent act or omission on the part of the Defendant; (5) injury suffered by the Plaintiff; and (6) that the condition of the property was a propitiate cause of the injury to the Plaintiff.

Damages-Collateral Source Rule- The Court of Claims applies the collateral source rule which holds that monies received from a source independent of the tortfeasor may not be deducted from damages, and accordingly, it is the policy of the Court to allow a set-off in a tort claim only when the monies received are from the State or another tortfeasor.

Premises Liability-The University of Illinois was found liable when an event attendee fell down the stairs. Other spectators sitting on the stairs created a dangerous condition of which Respondent had notice. The dangerous condition was not so open and obvious as to preclude liability.

OPINION AND ORDER

Birnbaum, J.

On February 19, 1999, Claimant, Mary Ann Makkay, was attending an Illinois State High School Association wrestling event at the University of Illinois, Champaign Assembly Hall. Claimant went to the event to see her daughter's boyfriend's brother wrestle. Claimant's group arrived in Champaign from the Chicago area at approximately 10:00am., checked into a hotel, and went to the Assembly Hall at the University of Illinois.

When they arrived at the assembly Hall, they purchased tickets for the event. The tickets were general admission and they did not have assigned seating. Multiple wrestling matches were proceeding simultaneously. The Assembly Hall had three sections: Section A was closest to the floor and seated approximately 2,000 people,

Section B was above Section A and seated approximately 4,000 people; and Section C was above Section B and seated approximately 10,000 people. Claimant originally sat in Section B, in the middle portion of the hall, as the day progressed she moved to Section A which was closer to the mats. In Section A, people were sitting in the seats, on the stairs and walking around the aisle or catwalk at the top of the section. Ushers were present in the area but did not remove or relocate the individuals sitting on the stairs.

When Claimant moved down to Section A she sat on the stairs at the very top row of Section A43 next to Gary Rigler's grandmother. She left room for people to walk past her. The people sitting on the stairs were staggered; some were in front of her, some were to the right of her. After sitting in this location for about five minutes, Claimant decided to move down. She got up and began to walk down the stairs. Because of the people sitting on the stairs, Claimant had to zig-zag between people and was unable to reach the stair railing. Claimant fell down the stairs head first and hit the cement retaining wall at the bottom of the stairs with her head. As Claimant hit her head, her chin went to the right and she heard something crack. After hitting the wall, Claimant did not lose consciousness, but lost vision for 10-20 seconds. Her knee was scraped and bleeding and she had a big bruise mark on her chest. A few minutes later paramedics arrived and Claimant declined to go the hospital because she was embarrassed.

Claimant felt jarred and had a headache. After Gary wrestled, she returned to the hotel for lunch. That night she was achy, her jaw hurt, and she felt worse. Before going to bed, Claimant felt nauseous and vomited several times during the night. In the morning, she had a splitting headache and her jaw clicked when she opened her mouth. Claimant went back to the Assembly Hall and filed an accident report at the First aid station.

Before the fall, Claimant did not have any problems with her jaw, neck or back. After returning home, Claimant had a headache and a lump on her head. On Monday evening she went to see Drs. Uhler and Kolb, her family physicians, complaining of the excruciating pain in her head and her jaw. She was instructed to go the emergency room where she had X-rays and an MRI taken. Within several weeks, Claimant went to see Dr. Sherman, a neurologist and Dr. Ingles, a dentist. Dr. Ingles referred her to Dr. Van Gilder, an oral surgeon. She saw Dr. Van Gilder once and went back to Dr. Ingles. Dr. Sherman treated Claimant for the head injury. Dr. Sherman referred Claimant to Dr. Regan, an orthopedic surgeon, for the pain in her hand, knee and back. Dr.

Regan sent her for ultrasound therapy. Claimant stopped going to therapy because it was uncomfortable. In the summer of 2000, Claimant began seeing Dr. Orloski, a chiropractor, who performed acupuncture on her in order to treat her head, neck and jaw. Claimant did not work from February, 1999 to August, 2001. At the time of the hearing, Claimant still had aches and pains in the joints, jaw and head. Her jaw still snapped and she would get headaches once a month which she would treat with Tylenol.

Numerous physicians testified by deposition with respect to Claimant's injuries. Dr. Jeffrey Uhler is board certified in family practice. He testified that Claimant was first treated on February 22, 1999 for headaches, contusions, jaw pain, neck pain, nausea, loss of vision, chest pain, shoulder pain, left knee and back pain resulting from a fall down some stairs. He diagnosed Claimant with post concussion syndrome which he believed was caused by her fall.

Dr. Eugene Ingles testified that in March 1999, Claimant came to see him for routine care and complained of jaw discomfort and limited opening. He believed that Claimant was suffering from a trauma-induced jaw joint problem and referred her to Dr. Van Gilder, an oral surgeon, for a diagnosis. Dr. Van Gilder referred her back for the fabrication of a centric occlusion splint for the treatment of TMJ. In Dr. Ingles' opinion, his treatment of Claimant from March 1999 to October 1999 was for a condition she sustained as a result of the fall in February, 1999.

Dr. Van Gilder saw Claimant in April 1999, because she was having headaches and jaw pain. He determined that Claimant had a decreased opening relative to her mandibular movement. When she did open her jaw, it deviated to a side and then returned to midline. She also had bilateral reciprocal clicks. He diagnosed temporomandibular joint disk displacement with reduction. In his opinion it was caused by trauma and was caused by the fall.

Dr. Sanford Sherman, a neurologist, first saw Claimant on March 12, 1999. Claimant told him that she had fallen down some concrete steps at the University of Illinois, had hit her head on a concrete wall, and had neck pain, headaches, dizziness, nausea and light-headedness. Dr. Sherman performed an examination and found limitation of movement in the neck, tenderness in the neck muscles and weakness on the left side that might have been related to pain. He believed that Claimant had a concussion and that she was suffering from either a cervical strain or cervical radiculopathy secondary to her trauma. In his opinion, these conditions were caused by her fall down the stairs, but that they were not permanent.

Dr. Quinn Regan, an orthopedic surgeon, testified that he first saw Claimant in December 2000 when she came to see him for multiple joint complaints. He diagnosed cervical strain without severe pressure on the spinal cord and stated that the fall was the probable cause of the injury.

Dr. Kevin Orloski, a chiropractor, first saw Claimant in August 2000. She was complaining of nausea, headache, neck pain, jaw pain, thoracic pain, lumbar pain and left heel pain that she had ever since she fell down some stairs and hit a cement wall with her head. He diagnosed pain in the thoracic spin, lumbago, myositis, muscle spasm and joint dysfunction of the jaw, neck and spine. In his opinion these injuries assured that she was going to be in pain for a very long time.

Kevin Ullestad was the director of the Assembly Hall in 1999. He testified that Section A43, the site of the claimant's fall, had six rows on the right side and three rows and a handrail on the left side. The rise on the steps was eight or nine inches in height. The short steps were 10 inches long, the long steps were 21 inches long and the steps were a maximum of 26 inches across. There were a total of 12 steps in that section.

The assembly Hall has about 16,1000 seats affixed to the ground and hosts 85 to 90 events per year and uses ushers at all the events. This was the only event for which general admission tickets were sold. Mr. Ullestad testified that the crowd at the wrestling event was a mobile crowd and more transient than at other events. Up to six wrestling matches could be taking place simultaneously and the matches lasted two to five minutes. Spectators would gather to watch a match and then leave. Ushers were positioned at the top of the exit behind A43. The usher's job was to service the guests and if the usher's had not been present, the doors would not have opened. Mr. Ullestad testified that Respo9ndent did not sell stairs as seats and if someone was sitting on a stair they should be moved. Mr. Ullestad was working on the date of Claimant's fall and, if he had seen people sitting on the steps, he would have told someone to have those people move.

Linda Bates was working as a nurse at the Assembly Hall on February 20, 1999. The log sheets for that day reflected that at 5:45 in the evening, Claimant stopped by to complete a post-accident form for a fall the previous day complaining of a stiff neck and possible cracked ribs.

Claimant filed a claim against Respondent pursuant to Illinois common law and the Premises Liability Act of Illinois (740 ILCS 130/1 et seq.)

Claimant does not argue that Respondent was negligent because the steps were defective, slippery or poorly configured. Rather, Claimant argues that she was a business invitee and that Respondent was negligent in: (1) failing to control the crowd; (2) permitting patrons to sit on the stairs; and (3) failing to provide a reasonably safe means for her to descend and ascend the stairs.

Respondent argues alternatively that it was not negligent because (1) the mere presence of people seated on steps does not present a dangerous condition; (2) it did not have notice of the dangerous condition; and (3) the condition was open and obvious.

Premises Liability Act

Under the Premises Liability Act (740 ILCS 130/1 et seq.) the State, as owner of the premises, owes a duty to persons on the premises to use reasonable care in keeping the premises reasonably safe for use by one lawfully on the premises. Daniels v. State, 53 Ill.Ct.Cl. 116, 121 (2000). This duty includes the duty to use reasonable care to discover any defects or dangerous conditions existing on the premises. De Loe v. State, 46 Ct.Cl. 256, 257-58 (1993). However, the State does not have a duty to clear away every possible source of injury. A legal duty requires more than the possibility of occurrence and the State is charged with a duty only when harm is foreseeable. This involves many factors, including the magnitude of the risk, the burden of requiring the State to guard against the risk and the consequences of placing this burden on the state. Steger v. State, Ill.Ct.Cl.262.2666 (9193).

In an action under the Illinois Premises Liability Act a plaintiff has the burden of proving: (1) the existence of a condition that presents an unreasonable risk of harm to persons on the premises; (2) that the defendants knew, or should have known, that the condition posed an unreasonable risk of harm; (3) that the defendants should have anticipated that individuals on the premises would fail to discover or recognize the danger or otherwise fail to protect themselves against it; (4) a negligent act or omission on the part of the defendant; (5) injury suffered by the plaintiff; and (6) that the condition of the property was a proximate cause of the injury to the plaintiff. Jordan v. National Steel Corp., 183 Ill.2d448, 454, 708 N.E.2d 1092 (1998).

Thus, the first issue to be addressed is whether the people sitting on the steps constituted a dangerous condition. Respondent claims that the mere presence of people sitting on the stairs does not constitute a dangerous condition. Claimant concedes that the mere presence of spectators on the steps may not constitute a breach of the duty of care. However, she argues that the staggered manner in which the spectators were seated, which prevented Claimant from having access to the handrail, did constitute a dangerous condition.

Here, the spectators impeded ingress and egress from the rows and on the stairs and blocked access to the handrail. In light of the fact that this was an extremely “volatile” and “mobile” audience, which could change seats after every match, we find that, under the circumstances, the presence of spectators sitting in a scattered pattern on the stairs constituted a dangerous condition.

The next issue is whether Respondent knew, or should have known, that the condition posed an unreasonable risk of harm. Respondent contends that it did not have actual or constructive notice of the dangerous condition because there had been no prior accidents. Claimant argues that the State had constructive notice, if not actual notice and that this would constitute a dangerous condition because it had a policy of not permitting spectators, to sit on the stairs.

We find that Respondent had notice of the dangerous condition. Mr. Ullestad testified that Respondent did not sell stairs as seats. He further testified that if someone was sitting on a stair they should be moved and if he had seen people on the steps, he would have told someone to have them move. Claimant testified that she sat in Section B for approximately ½ hour before moving down to Section A and during this time, spectators were sitting on the stairs. Respondent had ushers on duty throughout the course of the wrestling tournament that were positioned at the top of the exit behind A43. This time period is sufficient to establish constructive, if not actual, notice of the dangerous condition on the part of Respondent.

Next, we consider whether Respondent should have anticipated that individuals on the premises would fail to discover or recognize the danger or otherwise fail to protect themselves against the danger. Respondent claims that the condition in question was open and obvious and the general rule is that a landowner has no duty to warn of open and obvious conditions. See minor, 47 Ill.Ct.Cl. at 114-15. Respondent argues that Claimant saw the spectators seated on the stairs in a scattered pattern, saw that it would be difficult to grasp the handrail, and there was no reason to believe that she would not protect herself against this hazard when she chose to seek a lower seat.

Claimant contends that the condition was not open and obvious. Even if it were open and obvious, she maintains that the “distraction exception” applies. Under this exception, a property owner owes a duty of care, despite an open and obvious condition, if it has reason to expect that the invitee’s attention might be distracted so that she would not discover, or may forget that she had discovered the obvious condition. Buchelers v. Chicago Park District, 171 Ill.2d 435, 665 N.E.2d 826 (1996); Ward v. K-mart Corp., 136 Ill.2d 132, 554 N.E.2d 223 (1990). Claimant argues that the proper inquiry is not whether the condition was inherently dangerous but whether, under the circumstances, it was unreasonably dangerous. She contends that even if she knew of the patrons sitting on the stairs, she was distracted enough, in that crowded arena, while descending the stairs, to fail to appreciate the risk posed by the patrons.

We find that the dangerous condition was not so open and obvious so as to preclude liability. However, Claimant’s failure to exercise caution establishes some liability on her part. While Respondent argues that the liability on Claimant’s part would be in excess of 50%, we find that claimant was 40% negligent.

Based upon the dangerous nature of patrons sitting scattered about on the stairs while other patrons were ascending and descending those stairs, the State’s policy of prohibiting this type of activity and its notice of the dangerous condition, we believe Respondent was negligent in not moving the patrons from the stairs. Claimant has established that she was injured in her fall when she attempted to navigate around the individuals seated on the stairs and the evidence established that this condition was the proximate cause of Claimant’s injury.

Negligence

In addition to premises liability, Claimant also alleged simple negligence on the part of the State. In light of our findings for Claimant on the States liability under the Premises Liability aAct we conclude it is not necessary to address this alternative theory of liability.

Damages

Claimant is seeking damages in the amount of $7,680.75 for medical expenses, $58,500. for lost wages, $25,000. for pain and suffering and $15,000. for loss of a normal life. Respondent argues that under Section 26 of the Court of Claims Act, the amounts that Claimant received in the form of disability payments must be deducted from any award she may receive.

Claimant argues that a setoff arising from her receipt of disability payments is barred by the collateral source rule. Under this rule, benefits received by the injured party from a source wholly independent of, and collateral to, the tortfeasor will not diminish damages otherwise recoverable from the tortfeasor. Wilson v. Hoffman Group, Inc., 131 Ill.2d 308, 546 N.E.2d 524 (1989). The logic behind the collateral source rule is that an injured party has who had prudently entered into an insurance contract should be allowed to benefit from the contract. Failure to apply the collateral source rule allows the tortfeasor to escape the consequences of its wrongdoing by throwing the burden on the insured and rewarding those without insurance. Sallee v. State, 42Ill.Ct.Cl. 41,54 (1990).

While not explicitly bound to do so by its enabling act, this Court has applied traditional Illinois common law where it does not conflict with the act itself. Such common law includes the collateral source rule. Accordingly, it is the policy of this Court to allow set-off's pursuant to Section 26 of the Court of Claims Act only when monies received are from the State or another tortfeasor. Continental Insurance Co. v. State, 46 Ill.Ct.Cl. 26, 30-31 (1992).

Here, Claimant did not receive disability payments from the State or another tortfeasor.

Accordingly, the amount received by Claimant for disability shall not be set-off. We hereby award Claimant the amount of $7,680.75 for medical expenses, $58,500. for lost wages, and $20,000. for pain and suffering and loss of a normal life. This amount is reduced by 40% for Claimant's negligence and Claimant is award the amount of $51,708.45.

Exhaustion of Remedies- When a Claimant cannot exhaust its remedies against another source of recovery due to Claimant’s own failure to timely pursue those actions, Claimant’s action against the State must be dismissed as a failure to exhaust remedies.

ORDER

Storino, J.

This medical provider contract claim brought by Children’s Memorial Hospital (“Claimant”) against the Illinois Department of Corrections (“IDOC”) seeks $787,574.24 for medical services provided to an inmate of the IDOC, and is before this Court on Respondent’s motion to dismiss filed on February 3, 2005. For the following reasons, Respondent’s motion to dismiss is granted and this Claimant’s complaint is dismissed with prejudice.

Nature and History of the Claim

This claim, which was filed on March 15, 2001, is a contract action by Claimant against IDOC to recover for services provided and billed. The Claimant alleges that IDOC engaged it to treat one of IDOC’s inmates. Walter Johnson, whom it hospitalized and treated for an extensive period of time. IDOC moved to dismiss the action based upon Claimant’s failure to exhaust its remedies against Correction Management Services, Inc. (“CMS”), the company which contracted with IDOC to provide and manage medical care for inmates housed in Illinois correction facilities. On May 8, 2002, this Court held that exhaustion of alternative source remedies was required and ordered that Claimant’s complaint be placed on the general continuance calendar to allow for Claimant to exhaust its remedies against CMS.

Accordingly, Claimant filed a complaint against CMS which was heard before the United States District Court Judge Suzanne B. Conlon of the Northern District of Illinois. Pursuant to CMS's motion for summary judgment, on January 9, 2003, Judge Conlon issued a Memorandum, Opinion and Order, dismissing Claimant's complaint with prejudice as barred by the statute of limitations.

Thereafter, on July 12, 2004, this matter was removed from the general continuance calendar and placed back on this Court's active calendar for further proceedings. On February 3, 2005, IDOC filed a second motion to dismiss arguing for dismissal based upon Claimant's failure to exhaust its remedies and further arguing for dismissal pursuant to the doctrine of res judicata. Claimant filed its response to said motion to dismiss on March 24, 2005.

Respondent's Motion to Dismiss; Claimant's Response

IDOC's motion specifically argues, for dismissal with prejudice on the basis that Claimant has failed to exhaust, and cannot exhaust, its remedies against CMS, which is a mandatory requirement before seeking a final determination of its claim before this Court of Claims. Claimant also argues that the findings articulated in Judge Conlon's Memorandum Opinion and Order, dismissing Claimant's claim against CMS, bars Claimant's action against IDOC in the present case pursuant to the doctrine of res judicata.

Claimant's response attacks IDOC's motion by arguing that exhaustion of remedies is not mandatory and it had no obligation to exhaust its remedies against CMS as it was not in privity of contract with CMS. Claimant also argues against dismissal pursuant to the doctrine of res judicata by asserting that the granting of the motion for summary judgment does not rise to the level of adjudication on the merits, rendering the doctrine inapplicable.

Legal Analysis

Exhaustion of Remedies

Section 25 of the Illinois Court of Claims Act provides as follows:

Sec. 505/25. Exhaustion of other remedies for recovery - Exception. Any person who files a claim before the Court shall, before seeking final determination of his or her claim exhaust all other remedies and sources of recovery whether administrative or judicial except that failure to file or pursue actions against State employees, acting within the scope of their employment, shall not be a defense (705 ILCS 505/25).

Section 790.60 of the Court of Claims Regulations also provides in pertinent part:

Section 790.60 Exhaustion of Remedies. As required by Section 25 of the Court of Claims Act [705 ILCS 505/25] the claimant shall, before seeking final determination of his claim before the Court of Claims exhaust all other remedies, whether administrative legal or equitable, against all other sources of recovery for the injury or damages sought to be recovered by the claim, provided that no frivolous or unreasonable action is required to be brought against any third party in order to comply with this exhaustion of remedies requirement (74 Ill. Adm. Code 790.60).

The language of Section 25 of the Court of Claims Act and Section 790.60 of the Court of Claims Regulations quite clearly make the exhaustion of remedies mandatory to seeking recovery before this Court 705 ILCS 505/25. 74 Ill. Adm. Code 790.60. Lyons v State of Illinois, 34 Ill. Ct. Cl. 268 (1981). The fact that Claimant can no longer pursue those remedies cannot be a defense to the exhaustion requirement Lyons, 34 Ill. Ct. Cl. 268.

Claimant's argument that the exhaustion requirement is not mandatory is without merit for the plain language of the Court of Claims Act illustrates that exhaustion is indeed required "provided that no frivolous or unreasonable action is required to be brought against any third party in order to comply with this exhaustion of remedies requirement. 74 Ill. Adm. Code 790.60, of Davis v. State of Illinois, 49 Ill. Ct. Cl. 93 (1992) (exhaustion requirement does not require Claimant to file frivolous or unfounded actions). The fact that Claimant's complaint against CMS was dismissed for Claimant's own failure to file the complaint in a timely fashion does not render said action frivolous or unreasonable and thereby exempt from the exhaustion requirement. In fact, this Court in deciding the prior motion to dismiss in the instant case has determined that a reasonable and alternative remedy did exist against CMS by mandating Claimant to exhaust relief against CMS.

Accordingly, where a Claimant cannot exhaust its remedies against another source of recovery due to Claimant's own failure to timely pursue an action against the alternative source Claimant's action against the State must be dismissed with prejudice for failure to exhaust remedies, Lyons v State of Illinois, 34 Ill.Ct.Cl. 268 (1981).

Since the exhaustion of remedies requirement disposes of Claimant's claim in its entirety this Court need not address Respondent's motion to dismiss based on the doctrine of res judicata.

Conclusion

It is hereby ordered that Respondent's motion to dismiss is granted and Claimant's complaint is dismissed with prejudice.

ORDER

ORDER

Kaplan, J.

This comes before the Court on State of Illinois' Motion for Summary Judgment (hereafter also "Respondent"). Claimant filed his "Objections" and "Suggestions in Support of Objections", and Respondent filed its Reply.

Charles M. Bingaman, (hereafter also "Claimant") filed a "Petition for Payment of Claims and for Specific Performance for Breach of Contract" alleging jurisdiction under 705 ILCS 505/8(b) ("All claims against the State founded upon any contract entered into with the State of Illinois"). Claimant alleges that he had been working for the Office of the Inspector General for the Illinois Department of Human Services when in December 1999 he was asked to assume the post of Network Team Leader. He was promised that he would receive a 3% raise immediately and a 10% raise after he cleared a six month probationary period. Claimant assumed the post of Network Team Leader on January 1, 2000 and performed those duties until June 1, 2001.

Claimant did not receive the 3% or 10% raise and was removed from Network Team Leader position. Claimant filed a grievance and determination was reached on March 1, 2002. As a result, the Director of Central Management Services ("CMS") determined that the Claimant should be granted a 3% pay increase from January 1, 2000 to June 30, 2001, but without raising Claimant's base salary and without addressing the promised 10% raise. Respondent has never paid Claimant in accordance with this decision. Claimant alleges Respondent is in breach of the oral employment agreement. Claimant requests specific performance of the contract including a promotion to the position of Network Team Leader per the employment agreement and compensatory damages in the amount of $19,089.76 for back pay and:

1. $55.52 per bi-weekly pay period for from June 30, 2001 to the date of resolution of this matter, being the value of the promised 3% raise increase, calculated on the basis of Claimant's January 1, 2000 gross annual salary of $48,119, and omitting the anticipated payment for the period January 1, 2000 through June 30, 2001;
2. $200.16 per bi-weekly pay period for each such period between June 30, 2000 and February 1, 2001, being the value of the promised 10% raise increase, calculated on the adjusted gross wage of $52,040.37 (accounting for the promised 3% raise that should have been in effect at the time, but for the breach, plus a 5% annual raise effective February 1, 2000);
3. $206.16 per bi-weekly pay period for each such period between February 1, 2001 and February 1, 2002 being the value of the promised 10% raise increase, calculated on the adjusted gross base wage of $52,040.37 (accounting for the promised 3% raise that should have been in effect at that time, but for the breach, plus a 5% annual raise effective February 1, 2000 and an additional 3% raise effective February 1, 2001);
4. $212.34 per bi-weekly pay period for each such period between February 1, 2002 and the date of resolution of this matter, being the value of the promised 10% raise increase, calculated on the adjusted gross base wage of $52,040.37 (accounting for the promised 3% raise that should have been in effect at that time, but for the breach, plus a 5% annual raise effective February 1, 2000 and an additional 3% raise effective February 1, 2001, and a further 3% raise effective February 1, 2002);
5. $1,850 in unpaid overtime from January 1, 2000 to the present;
6. Statutory interest at 5% pursuant to 815 ILCS 205/2;
7. $1,282.68 in unpaid retirement fund contributions;

8. Loss of concomitant contributions to the social security system, and loss of additional life insurance benefits;
9. Loss of three week's sick leave time for stress proximately caused by Respondent's breach;
10. Costs of suit and any additional compensatory damages.

Respondent filed the present Motion for Summary Judgment. Respondent contends that Claimant's cause of action is barred by the Statute of Frauds (740 ILCS 80/1) as Claimant is attempting to enforce an oral employment contract for continued employment that exceeds one year. In addition, since the resolution of the Claimant's grievance was to pay the Claimant a 3% pay increase from January 1, 2000 to June 20, 2001, the Claimant has been fully compensated for his services as a Network Team Leader. Respondent also states that this court does not have jurisdiction over implied or quasi contracts or to rule on administrative decisions, and injunctive relief.

Claimant responds that the Statute of Frauds does not apply here as the agreement could have been performed in less than one year, Claimant is not asserting claims based on an implied or quasi contract theory, only on a promotion with commensurate increases in pay, and claimant is not seeking review of an administrative decision. Claimant does not dispute that this Court does not have jurisdiction to enter injunctive relief.

Within the filed materials is the "Rules Committee Recommendation" that states, in full:

The panel recommends that the grievance be granted to the extent a 3% pay increase be given from January 1, 2000 to June 20, 2001. The grievant was performing the duties and responsibilities of the Investigative Team Leader position and should be compensated for these duties.

Also included in the file is the "Findings and Decision of the Director of Central Management Services".

In the "Findings", the Director concurred with the Rules Committee Recommendation and further stated that "the agency did not properly abide by the provision regarding temporary appointments defined in Section 302.150 of the personnel rules". The Director stated that Claimant "shall be awarded a 3% salary adjustment for the period of January 1, 2000 to June 30, 2001" and that the decision was final and "binding on all parties."

Respondent replies that Claimant's "new assertion" that he never received his award and that Claimant has not exhausted all of his administrative remedies as Claimant could have filed a back wage claim, a mandamus, or a claim with the Civil Service Commission to enforce the award.

The issue to address in this matter is whether this Court has jurisdiction to address this claim. In his Petition, Claimant seeks damages based on a "breach of an employment agreement against the Illinois Department of Human Services and its Inspector General." Claimant clarifies this in his Response by stating he is alleging a breach of a promise of promotion.

It is axiomatic, and requires no citation of authority-which is endemic in the reports of this Court as well as those of the Illinois reviewing Courts- that for this Court to have subject matter jurisdiction over a claim, such jurisdiction must be granted to us by statute. Arthur Wulf v. State, 51 Ill.Ct.Cl. 383 (1999). In Michigan Central v. State, 7 Ill.Ct.Cl. 133 (1933), this court stated that:

Disagreements and disputes may arise between the State and the other parties thereto necessitating the determination of questions of both law and fact. To provide a forum for the determination of such questions the Legislature created the Court of Claims. But it is clear the Legislature did not intend the Court of Claims should take jurisdiction of matters the determination of which had been developed upon other agencies. It was only created to hear claims and demands against the State for which no other forum had been provided. Any other construction of the powers developed upon the Court of Claims would give it jurisdiction to review the decisions of all agencies of the State in all matters involving the moneys due to or from the State. Certainly the Legislature never intended to confer such powers upon this court.

The only statutory delegation of authority to this Court is set forth in Section 8 of the Court of Claims Act (705 ILCS 505/8). Therefore, the jurisdictional analysis is whether the claim falls within the scope of any of the jurisdictional grants in Section 8. This Court has long held that our contract jurisdiction is limited to express contracts with the State and does not encompass implied in law contracts (quasi-contracts). Arthur Wulf v. State, 51 Ill.Ct.Cl. 383 (1999).

This Court has rejected implied contract claims because our "contract claim" jurisdiction under Section 8(b) of the Court of Claims Act is limited to actual, express contracts "entered into" by the State. Thomas Rubidoux et. al. v. Northeastern Illinois University et. al., 51 Ill.Ct.Cl. 275, (1998) (count dismissed for want of jurisdiction). See also, OJA Enterprises, Inc. et. al. v. State, 54 Ill.Ct.Cl. 477 (2001) (wherein the respondent argued that the claimant's theories of recovery based upon implied contract and unjust enrichment must fail as an express written contract governs the equitable claims implied; it is well settled that implied contracts with State entities are looked upon with disfavor, and this court has consistently held that one dealing with an agent of the State must ascertain at his peril the authority of the agent). See also, Dilbeck (Susan Rhea) v. State, 42 Ill.Ct.Cl. 222 (1990) (even if there was an oral contract, it would not have been enforceable under the Statute of Frauds due to the fact that it was for continuous employment and exceeded one year).

In addition, this court has held that it is well settled that oral or implied contracts are only enforced when provided in an emergency. Aldo M. Sbigoli, D.D.S. v. State, 53 Ill.Ct.Cl. 215 (2000).

Based on the above, this Court has no jurisdiction to address Claimant's claim for a breach of a contract to promote him. There is no evidence of a written contract, nor evidence of an emergency.

If Claimant's Petition can be interpreted as an attempt to review the administrative decision of the Director of CMS' final decision, this cannot be reviewed by this court.

Section 5/3-104 of the Code of Civil Procedure (735 ILCS 5/3-104) states that Jurisdiction to review final administrative decisions is vested in the circuit court. For example, in Baca v. State, 45 Ill.Ct.Cl. 243 (1992), the court stated that the fact that the review of the decision of the Division of Benefit Payment Control is provided through administrative review in the circuit court prevented the Court of Claims from assuming jurisdiction over the claim. In Baca v. State, 45 Ill.Ct.Cl. 243 (1992), the claimant sought to recover the amount of an unemployment insurance warrant issued by the Illinois Department of Employment Security and the Division of Benefit Payment Control of the Department of Employment Security held administrative hearings to determine whether a warrant should be reissued; the claims adjudicator denied reissuance of the warrant. See also, Rivera v. State (1981), 35 Ill. Ct. Cl. 375; Moore v. State (1980), 34 Ill. Ct. Cl. 108; Anaya v. State (1980), 34 Ill. Ct. Cl. 161.

This is in keeping with the provisions of the Administrative Review Act, ILCS Ch. 735, ACT 5, Art. III. Section 5/3-102 of the Act defines its scope. It provides that the Act shall apply to and govern every action to review judicially a final decision of any administrative agency where the Act creating or conferring power on such agency, by express reference, adopts the provisions of the Act. Section 5/3-101 of the Act defines what is contemplated by the terms “decision” and “administrative agency” as follows:

“Administrative decision” or “decision” means any decision, order or determination of any administrative agency rendered in a particular case, which affects the legal rights, duties or privileges of parties and which terminates the proceedings before the administrative agency. In all cases in which a statute or a rule of the administrative agency requires or permits an application for a rehearing or other method of administrative review to be filed within a specified time (as distinguished from a statute which permits the application for rehearing or administrative review to be filed at any time before judgment by the administrative agency against the applicant or within a specified time after the entry of such judgment), and an application for such rehearing or review is made, no administrative decision of such agency shall be final as to the party applying therefor until such rehearing or review is had or denied. However, if the particular statute permits an application for rehearing or other method of administrative review to be filed with the administrative agency for an indefinite period of time after the administrative decision has been rendered (such as permitting such application to be filed at any time before judgment by the administrative agency against the applicant or within a specified time after the entry of such judgment), then the authorization for the filing of such application for rehearing or review shall not postpone the time when the administrative decision as to which such application shall be filed would otherwise become final, but the filing of the application for rehearing or review with the administrative agency in this type of case shall constitute the commencement of a new proceeding before such agency, and the decision rendered in order to dispose of such rehearing or other review proceeding shall constitute a new and independent administrative decision. If such new and independent decision consists merely of the denial of the application for rehearing or other method of administrative review, the record upon judicial review of such decision shall be limited to the application for rehearing or other review and the order or decision denying such application and shall not include the record of proceedings had before the rendering of the administrative decision as to which the application for rehearing or other administrative review shall have been filed unless the suit for judicial review is commenced within the time in which it would be authorized by this Act to have been commenced if no application for rehearing or other method of administrative review had been filed. On the other hand, if the rehearing or other administrative review is granted by the administrative agency, then the record on judicial review of the resulting administrative decision rendered pursuant to the rehearing or other administrative review may consist not only of the record of proceedings had before the administrative agency in such rehearing or other administrative review proceeding, but also of the record of proceedings had before such administrative agency prior to its rendering of the administrative decision as to which the rehearing or other administrative review shall have been granted. The term “administrative decision” or “decision” does not mean or include rules, regulations, standards, or statements of policy of general application issued by an administrative agency to implement, interpret, or make specific the legislation enforced or administered by it unless such a rule, regulation, standard or statement of policy is involved in a proceeding before the agency and its applicability or validity is in issue in such proceeding, nor does it mean or include regulations concerning the internal management of the agency not affecting rights or interests.

The Central Management Services’ decision involved in the case at bar falls within the above definitions.

There is no evidence that the Act creating the agency at issue did not adopt the provisions of the Administrative Review Act. As such, under Section 505/8(a) of the Court of Claims Act, jurisdiction to review final administrative decisions is vested in the Circuit Courts. Rockford Memorial Hospital Association v. State, 26 Ill. Ct. Cl. 215 (wherein the claim was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction as the claimant had an adequate remedy in a court of general jurisdiction).

Finally, the Court of Claims lacks jurisdiction to grant injunctive relief. Garimella v. University of Illinois 50 Ill. Ct. Cl. 350 (1997).

Considering all of the above, this Court finds that it lacks jurisdiction to consider Claimant's claim for a breach of contract against the Illinois Department of Human Services and its Inspector General Odell Thompson. Furthermore, if it is Claimant's position that he is alleging a review of the final decision of the Director of Central Management Services as to Claimant's grievance, this Court lacks jurisdiction. Finally, even if Claimant's Petition can be constructed as a Petition to enforce the Director's final decision, this Court lacks jurisdiction. Also, Claimant's request for damages indicates that he is seeking damages based on a position that would last over a year, bringing into issue the Statute of Frauds. Claimant's Petition further requests specific performance of the oral agreement such that Respondent be made to promote Claimant per the oral agreement. This Court also lacks jurisdiction to order this remedy.

For these reasons, Respondent's Motion for Summary Judgment is granted.

OPINION

Steffen, J.

This claim is before the Court upon a recommendation from Commissioner LaGuina Clay-Clark following an evidentiary hearing.

Claimant, an inmate in the Illinois Department of Corrections (“IDOC”) is seeking compensation in the amount of $100,000 for personal injury to the face, head and right shoulder resulting from stray gunshot pellets due to the alleged negligence of an IDOC guard. On October 7, 2002, Claimant filed a complaint with the Court of Claims.

FACTS

An evidentiary hearing was conducted before the designated commissioner on December 8, 2004. Entered into evidence were Claimant's exhibits, including medical records and the State's Departmental Report, which includes results of an internal investigation. Testifying on behalf of the State were correctional officer William Brown and Partha S. Ghosh, M.D. Claimant testified on his own behalf.

On or about March 30, 2002, at approximately 5:00 p.m. Claimant was released from his cell in order to go to the dining room. Claimant testified that while proceeding along the gallery towards a fire escape, he heard an IDOC officer yell, “Let it ride”, and the next thing I know I was shot. Claimant explained that he was hit nine times by gunfire in the face, shoulder, chest and leg. The record indicates that an officer fired his weapon as a warning to halt a fight between an inmate and officer two galleries below. Claimant said that after being struck he fell to the ground where he remained bleeding for about five or ten minutes before an officer arrived to assist. He was taken to the health care unit within the facility. The medical staff treated his face, chest and leg, and later an x-ray revealed that two pellets remained in his right shoulder. Claimant believes that one pellet also remains above his eye. Claimant explained that a few days after the incident he noticed a piece of pellet “sticking” from his head which was removed by the doctor. Claimant said that he was given a 30-day supply of Tylenol for pain.

Claimant filed a grievance on May 6, 2002 seeking $100,000 and the removal of the pellets, but no action was recommended by the institution. Claimant then sent his grievance to Springfield and Springfield referred Claimant’s grievance to a doctor. The doctor’s recommendation stated that most specialists do not recommend exploring the body to remove fragments from gunshot wounds’ so the pellets were not removed. Claimant complained that he still has pain from the pellets and that he is unable to lift weights as effectively as he had done before the fragments were present in his shoulder. Claimant explained that he also has headaches but does not complain because he is required to pay $2.00 each time he goes to sick call and he cannot afford it. Claimant further testified that nine permanent scars are left on his body as a result of the pellets.

Lieutenant William Brown, an officer with IDOC testified that he was four levels down and one unit over from where the weapon was fired. He explained that when he heard the gunfire he immediately went to assist. When he arrived, Brown observed an inmate and an officer on the floor scuffling as the officer attempted to put handcuffs on the inmate. According to Brown, another officer was helping with the scuffle and three additional officers were present. Brown testified that he helped get the inmate cuffed and stated that he felt that the warning shot was justified because an officer was having a physical altercation with an inmate. Brown also explained that warning shots are to be fired in the air or into a shot box. He described that a shot box is “a box they shoot into to prevent ricochets from all the pellets going everywhere.”

Dr. Partha S. Ghosh, a medical director for IDOC, also testified for the State. Ghosh stated that x-rays of Claimant’s head, chest and shoulder revealed that two pellets were in Claimant’s right shoulder only and none were revealed near his eye. Ghosh explained that most physicians will not recommend removal of pellets unless the pellets are close to a vital structure or if the pellets cause any functional disturbance. When requested by the Court, Ghosh made a visual examination of Claimant and testified that Claimant has a small wound on the forehead, a small wound a few millimeters in the eye area, a scar on his right shoulder one and a half centimeters wide and a half inch long, and a scar on the chest. Ghosh suggested that the scar on the chest was pre-existing.

Included within the departmental report submitted by Respondent which was completed by IDOC and offered as prima facie evidence of the facts contained therein pursuant to Section 790.140 of the Rules of the Court of Claims (74 Ill. Adm. Code 790.140) Menard County Health Department v. State of Illinois (1989) 41 Ill. Ct. Cl. 200 201, are the results of an internal investigation conducted by IDOC. The investigation concluded that the based on eye witness accounts and the inmate's own admission, the inmate committed a criminal violation of aggravated battery and created a dangerous disturbance when the inmate started a fight with the officer. Even though the investigation discussed the injuries of Claimant and other inmates as a result of the warning shots the investigation does not address the issue of negligence when the shot was fired. The investigation consists of interviews of inmates, who were witnesses as well as interviews and incident reports from officers who were also present. Even though the various versions of the incident differ slightly from one account to the next, the overwhelming majority of the witnesses described an officer and an inmate falling down a flight of stairs while fighting, and many of the inmates stated that they heard an officer yell "Let it ride" before the officer fired the warning shot.

Officer Carter, who fired the shot, was away on military leave and therefore unavailable for this hearing. However, Carter's interview was included within the departmental report and in pertinent part states:

Johnson was trying to handcuff the inmate, and the inmate resisted being cuffed. During this altercation, the inmate punched Lt. Johnson in the head with his fist. There was a large number of inmates in the vicinity of Lieutenant Johnson. So Carter fired a warning shot at the ceiling to disperse the inmates and to protect Lt. Johnson. There is no shot box in the area where they were. Staff responded to Lt. Johnson, and no more shots were fired.

Carter's report states in pertinent part:

This correctional officer then chambered a round in the shotgun with weapon pointing up while inmate was still wrestling with Lt. Johnson.

Claimant argues that the officer acted negligently when he fired the warning shot because at the time the shotgun was fired the inmate was already secured and the officer's life was not in danger. Claimant contends that the officer should have used his own judgment and should not have shot just because another officer instructed him to do so by yelling “let it ride”. Additionally, Claimant contends that “let it ride” was not proper warning. Next, Claimant argues that the officer shot the weapon from hip-level and as a result the pellets hit a low beam causing it to ricochet and strike him. Lastly, Claimant argues that he has three pellets left in his body and not two as the doctor testified. Conversely, Respondent argues that there is nothing in the record to establish that the inmate was secure when the shot was fired. Next, Respondent contends that warning shot was reasonable and not negligent. It contends that Claimant received proper medical care and denies any liability.

POST TRIAL

Respondent was ordered to produce within 28 days photographs of Claimant depicting injuries from the pellets, photographs of the actual pellet that was removed from Claimant’s forehead on or about April 8, 2002, and copies of Dr. Elyea’s medical report that was referenced in the Administrative Review Board’s report. Claimant was ordered to produce within 28 days copies of Dr. Smith’s medical report, and both parties were granted leave to produce any relevant case law within 30 days. Both parties provided case law, Claimant submitted medical reports. No pictures were produced by Respondent nor was Dr. Elyea’s medical report.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

A prison officer faced with an inmate disturbance is afforded a wide range of discretion as to the force which may be used, and the total circumstances are to be considered in determining whether an officer’s conduct was neglect, Berry v. State (2000) 52 Ill. Ct. Cl. 117. Accordingly the Court recognizes the necessity for wide range of discretion, Hamilton v. State (1987) 40 Ill. Ct. Cl. 191, because when a fight breaks out the State owes a duty to the general population to restore order as quickly as possible to prevent the unwanted attacks of inmates regardless of other inmates White v. State (1994) 47 Ill. Ct. Cl. 344. The State will not be held liable to third parties struck by ricocheting pellets whenever officers did not act improperly in discharging the firearm Sanders v. State (2001) 54 Ill. Ct. Cl. 390 397. In the case at the bar the controlling issue is whether or not the guard acted negligently when he discharged his weapon.

In Berry a fight broke out among three inmates while in the chow line. One of the inmates had a blade. Attempts were made to separate the fighters and an officer radioed for help. Verbal warnings were given. Officers were attempting to handcuff the combatants when a warning shot was fired. Berry, who was forty feet away, was struck in the upper portion of his scalp from a pellet from the warning shots. The fragment was removed and claimant received eight stitches. Even though this Court found the Respondent's actions reasonable under the circumstances, Berry was awarded $3,000 for pain and suffering. The court held that the conclusion of the IDOC's internal investigation report was determinative of the issue of negligence and imputed it to the State because the report was neither un rebutted nor explained. Id at 124

In Hamilton no negligence was found when claimant's nose was struck by ricochet after a warning shot was fired into the ceiling just five seconds after the guard observed the fight. This Court held that notwithstanding the fact that the officer may have been hasty in deciding to fire, the officer has wide range of discretion. Even if he exercised bad judgment this is not necessarily exceeding the limits of his discretion or abusing his discretion. However hasty the officer may have been in firing the warning shot his testimony makes clear that he himself thought that it was a necessary action to take. The claim was denied Id at 195.

In White Claimant was denied his claim for negligence when a tower guard fired a warning shot after an altercation between two inmates and a correctional officer ensued. The officer fired a warning shot into the ceiling, which was ignored by the combatants. The officer then fired a shot on the floor near the inmate. White was struck by pellets from a birdshot that ricocheted off the floor. White sustained injuries to the back and groin area and demanded $20,000. This Court declined to find liability holding that the officer's actions were reasonable under the circumstances and that inmates have a reasonable right to personal safety Id at 347.

In Sanders inmates were injured by stray pellets after an officer fired a warning shot into a shot box. The inmates argued that the officer shot the weapon in a negligent manner or either missed the shot box and that their injuries were caused by structural flaws of the shot box or either by the officer missing the shot box all together. This Court denied their claims because there was nothing in the record to indicate that the State must provide a shot box or even correct flaws in the shot box. Sanders also held that the State would not be held for third party injuries from ricocheting pellets if the Respondent did not act improperly.

In the case at the bar, after an examination of the entire record, we find that Respondent did not act negligently when he discharged his weapon. It is undisputed that a fight occurred between an officer and an inmate. It is also undisputed that many inmates had been released from their cells at that time. Most witnesses reported seeing the inmate and officer physically fighting and tumbling downstairs. The rumble created an undeniably dangerous environment within the facility. Claimant asserts that the inmate was cuffed at the time that the shot was fired, but his statement is not corroborated by any of the witnesses nor anywhere else in the record. Claimant also argues that the officer should have used his own judgment when shooting the weapon. Notwithstanding that Claimant was not inside of the officer's head and therefore was in no position to determine whether Carter used his own judgment or not, the officer expressed that his actions were necessary in order to restore and maintain safety and therefore used his own discretion. Claimant also argues that Respondent was negligent by failing to give proper warning before shooting and that the officer shot the weapon from hip-level and that is why the pellets ricocheted and hit him. There was neither expert testimony nor evidence given to support Claimant's ricochet theory and the Court is unable to speculate otherwise. Additionally, even though the internal investigation acknowledged that inmates were struck by pellets the report was not determinative of the issue of negligence which can be imputed onto the State and nor can this court impugn Respondent with such negligence. Based on the totality of the circumstances, as well as our holdings in Berry, Hamilton, White and Sanders we find the Respondent's actions were reasonable and find no negligence on the part of the State.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that this claim be dismissed.

Negligence-Elements-Claimant must establish a duty owed by Respondent, a breach of that duty, and damages resulting proximately from that breach.

Negligence-Police rights in an emergency response-A police officer in an emergency response or pursuing a lawbreaker may lawfully violate rules of the road as long as they do not endanger life or property. Negligence-Claimant did not meet her burden of proof that Respondent, a police officer, was negligent when he struck her from behind during an emergency response call. Respondent was not speeding so fast that Claimant could not move to the right of the road, and Claimant failed to do so which violated 5/11-907(a)(1).

OPINION

Sprague, C.J.

Claimant filed a Complaint for monetary damages as a subrogee of Carolyn Mizell. The Complaint alleges that an Illinois Department of Central Management Services/Illinois State Highway Patrol employee negligently struck the rear of Mizell's vehicle causing property damage and personal injuries. A hearing was held before Commissioner Patricia Murphy on August 3, 2006. Joe Leberman represented Claimant, and Assistant Attorney General Bradley Bucher represented Respondent.

I. Background

On May 25, 2005, Mizell was struck by a State Police vehicle operated by Illinois State Trooper Michael Alvey that was engaged in an emergency call. The collision occurred as the State Police vehicle moved to pass

Mizell's vehicle in the center turn lane on Illinois Route 45 outside of Metropolis, Illinois. At the time of the accident Trooper Alvey was in an emergency response with his emergency lights and sirens activated.

The first witness for Claimant was Steven Parker. Parker testified as to the operation of the State Police vehicle prior to the accident. Respondent objected to the relevancy of the testimony as Parker did not actually witness the accident and moved to strike testimony. Commissioner Murphy granted the motion to strike. Parker's testimony is stricken and is not considered in this option.

The next witness called by Claimant was Mizell. Mizell testified that on the date and time in question she was traveling southbound Illinois Route 45. She stated that Route 45 was a four lane road with a center turn lane. She testified that she was traveling in the passing lane, which she described as the centermost lane of traffic. There was a lane of traffic to her right and the center turn lane was to her left. She testified that she noticed the State Police vehicle coming behind with the emergency lights activated. She stated that she hit her brakes as her initial reaction was that the State Police vehicle was after her. She testified that she determined that the State Police vehicle was not after her but was going to pass her. She testified that the State Police vehicle was coming behind her fast so she decided to stay in her lane. She testified that she stayed in her lane because she thought the State Police vehicle was going to pass her on the right. Mizell testified that she was then struck from behind and was spun into the ditch on the opposite side of the road. She stated that there were no vehicles in the right lane to her front or to her rear. On cross-examination, Mizell stated that she may have had time to pull to the right when she first noticed the State Police vehicle but did not pull to the right lane because she thought the State Police vehicle was coming from behind too fast and was going to pass her on the right.

At the conclusion of the testimony of Mizell Claimant's Group Exhibit 1 was admitted without objection. Claimant's Exhibits 2 and 3 were also admitted into evidence without objection. Claimant closed its case in chief.

Respondent called State Trooper Alvey. Trooper Alvey testified that he was responding to an emergency call and was traveling southbound on Illinois Route 45. He testified that his lights were on as he approached Mizell's vehicle. Trooper Alvey testified that as he approached Mizell's vehicle that traffic was moderate. He stated that there were vehicles in the right lane both in front of and behind Mizell. He stated that he moved into the center turn lane and proceeded to accelerate to pass Mizell. He testified that as he tried to pass Mizell she moved her vehicle into the center turn lane. Alvey hit his brakes; locked his rear wheels; and lost control of his vehicle. Trooper Alvey testified that he struck Mizell's vehicle.

On cross-examination, Trooper Alvey testified that he has a duty to operate his vehicle in a reasonable, safe manner for others and property even when in an emergency action. He testified that vehicles are to move to the right per the Rules of the Road so troopers are trained to never go to the right when approaching a vehicle. He testified that he had just passed a vehicle on his right when he moved to the center turn lane. At the conclusion of Trooper Alvey's testimony Respondent's Exhibit 1 was admitted into evidence without objection.

II. Analysis

There is no question that Trooper Alvey struck Mizell's vehicle. The issue in this case is whether Alvey or Mizell was negligent or was it a combination of both parties' negligence. Claimant has made a claim for negligence. In order to prevail, Claimant must establish a duty owed to Claimant by Respondent, a breach of that duty by Respondent, and damages resulting proximately from that breach. Chandler v. Illinois Central Railroad Co., 207 Ill. 2d 331, 340, 798 N.E.2d 724, 729 (2003).

In Claimant's complaint he alleged that Alvey owed a duty to exercise care and caution for the safety of others. Claimant alleges that Alvey deviated from this duty by: (1) negligently operated his vehicle at a rate of speed greater than that which was reasonable and proper for the traffic conditions in violation of 625 ILCS 5/11-601; and (2) negligently failed to keep a proper distance between his vehicle and the Claimant's vehicle.

A police officer in an emergency response or pursuing a lawbreaker may violate various rules of the road so long as they do not endanger life or property. Koepf v. State of Illinois, 46 Ill. Ct. Cl. 344 (1993). The Rules of the Road cite specific rules that a police officer may violate in an emergency call or when pursuing a lawbreaker. See 625 ILCS 5/11-601. First among these rules is that a police officer may exceed the posted speed limit. See 625 ILCS 5/11-601(3). Even though the law provides that a police officer may exceed the posted speed limit, the officer still must exercise ordinary care in the operation of the vehicle so as not to endanger others or property. Davis v. State of Illinois, 49 Ill. Ct. Cl. (1996).

In this case, the key factual question revolves around the behavior of Mizell and Alvey just prior to the accident. Mizell testified that she knew Alvey was coming from behind her and she remained in her lane of traffic. Mizell stated that even though Alvey was approaching from the rear at a high rate of speed she had adequate time to move to the right of the road if she had elected. This testimony leads to two conclusions: (1) Alvey was not going so fast as to prevent other drivers the time to safely move to the right of the road; and (2) Mizell violated §5/11-907(a)(1) of the Rules of the Road by not moving to the right of the roadway to allow Alvey to pass, (625 ILCS 5/11-907(a)(1)).

Even though Mizell did not move to the right of the roadway, Alvey still had a duty to exercise due care so as not to endanger others when passing Mizell. That is to say a police officer cannot rear end another vehicle simply because it fails to move to the right. Therefore, this Court must determine if Alvey should have stopped or avoided Mizell. The burden of proof on this question rests with Claimant.

Alvey testified that as he approached Mizell he moved to the center turn lane to go around her because she had not moved to the right of the road. He stated that as he moved to pass her, Mizell moved into the center turn lane causing the accident. This movement of Mizell to her left is disputed by the testimony of Mizell. Unfortunately for Claimant it is her burden to prove that Alvey deviated from the standard of care. Claimant has not presented any evidence to conclude that Alvey deviated from his duty of care. If anything one can infer that Mizell may have moved to the left if she thought Alvey was going to pass her on her right as she testified. Claimant has not met her burden of proof.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant's claim is denied.

OPINION

Sprague, C.J.

This matter came for hearing on December 7th, 2004 before Commissioner Joseph Cavanaugh on Claimant Leone Foss's claim for personal injuries arising from her fall on October 21st, 2002 at approximately 2:30 PM on a grassy parkway adjacent to Joliet Road in Countryside, Illinois.

FACTS

Leone I. Foss, claimant, age seventy-six, testified that on October 21st, 2002, at 2:30 PM, she was driving on Joliet Road, east of Wolf Road, in Countryside, Illinois, on her way home when she stopped her vehicle at the driveway of an entrance to a golf course to look for golf balls in the parkway. At that location there is a fence enclosing a golf course. Claimant has been collecting golf balls in the area on and off for several years. Between the fence and Joliet Road is a parkway where the accident occurred. Claimant's Exhibit 2 was admitted into evidence and shows the driveway where the claimant stopped her vehicle, the fence along the golf course, Joliet Road, and also the parkway where the fall occurred. Claimant's exhibits 3 & 4 were admitted into evidence and close-up photos of the parkway and the area of the depression where the claimant fell. The width of the parkway between Joliet Road and the golf course fence appears to be about twenty feet. The photos show that the parkway slopes gently from the golf course fence downward to Joliet Road and in the parkway there is a depression covered by leaves located next to a storm sewer.

Claimant testified that she had walked about six feet onto the parkway, looking at the ground for golf balls when her right foot stepped into a six-inch sinkhole, which was covered with leaves. She fell on her right side onto her right arm. A man driving by stopped to assist the claimant. However the claimant reported that she was able to get up without assistance before the man reached her. Claimant told the man she hurt her arm and requested his name and address. The man gave her his business card and offered to drive her home. She declined his offer and drove herself to her home, which was located approximately a half a mile away.

When she arrived home her arm hurt and she found that she could not raise it at all. She called her family physician and was able to get an appointment two days after the accident. At her appointment she complained of pain in her right arm and also that she was unable to raise her right arm. She later noticed a black and blue baseball-sized bruise on her right breast, which eventually went away. Her physician referred her for an MRI, which was performed on October 25th, 2002. The MRI showed a rotator cuff tear in the right shoulder. Despite the claimant's denial of any previous injury to the rotator cuff, Dr. Bartolomeo reports that he suspects that the claimant's rotator cuff has probably been tearing for months or years and that the fall was the coup de grace that tipped it over the edge.

The claimant received a single cortisone injection and also received physical therapy at LaGrange Memorial Hospital for approximately three months. At trial she testified that the use of her arm is still limited and that she experiences range of motion limitations as well as pain in her arm. The medical records and bills, which totaled $6,026.65, were admitted into evidence by way of stipulation.

Tim Curran was called as a witness both by the claimant and respondent and testified that he is employed by the Illinois Department of Transportation. In 2002 he worked for IDOT as a highway maintainer and his duties included responding to complaints such as pavement buckles, pothole or sewer defects. On December 4th, 2003

Mr. Curran was requested to go to the parkway where the accident occurred to determine if the site was State right-of way property. Mr. Curran examined the site and determined that the parkway property was State owned and maintained. He examined the storm sewer in the parkway and found no evidence of cracks in the sewer. He then filled a small sinkhole located next to the storm sewer. He testified that he was unaware of any previous complaints about the sewer or small sinkhole. Mr. Curran surmised that a gradual erosion of the soil could create the sinkhole he filled with dirt and leveled off which was located next to the storm sewer. He believed the sinkhole could be a dangerous condition if one was not watching where they were walking or if leaves covered the sinkhole.

Christine Ridge, and IDOT litigation representative, testified that she examined IDOT records for calls or complaints for six months prior to the date of the accident and yard maintenance records for two years prior to the accident. Based upon her review of the IDOT records, she testified that there were no records of complaints or calls made during the six months prior to the accident about the sinkhole or the depression area located next to the storm sewer. The first communication to IDOT regarding the sinkhole was the investigation initiated after the complaint was filed in the Court of Claims in 2003. Ms. Ridge was unaware of any records of accidents or repairs made at this location for two years prior to October 21st, 2002.

LAW

The State owes a duty of reasonable care in maintaining its property. To recover, claimant must establish by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondent breached its duty of reasonable care and that the negligence of Respondent proximately caused her injury. (Acme Carrier, Inc. v. State (1977), 32 Ill. Ct. Cl. 83.) To show negligence, the Claimant must show that the State was negligent in the maintenance of the Parkway in that it had actual or constructive notice of a dangerous condition. (Noonen v. State (1983), 36 Ill. Ct. Cl. 200.); (Nolan v. State (1983) 36 Ill. Ct. Cl. 194.). The State is not an insurer of the safety of invitees, but must only exercise reasonable care for their safety. (Fleischer v. State (1983), 35 Ct. Cl. 799.)

The area in the Parkway where the claimant fell, identified by Claimant in Claimant's Exhibits 2, 3, & 4, shows an open and obvious sinkhole filled with leaves and adjacent to a sewer drain. The exhibits show the Parkway slopes downward from the fence to Joliet Road. The claimant testified that, after exiting her vehicle, she took approximately six steps before she fell. The driveway where she parked is about six feet from the sinkhole area where she fell. The claimant then necessarily walked from her car directly across the sewer or around it, onto the sinkhole area, and then fell. Claimant testified she was looking downward, and therefore with the exercise of reasonable caution, should have seen the slope, sewer, and sinkhole area even if it was covered with leaves. Claimant also testified that she has been collecting golf balls in the area for several years.

In Sepsey v. Archer Daniel Midland Co. (1981), 97 Ill. App. 3rd 867, 423 N.E.2nd 942, the Illinois Appellate Court held that a visitor is responsible to see any open and obvious dangers and thus is expected to discover them. A landowner is not required to give precautions or warnings where possible danger is evident in order to exercise the duty of reasonable care toward invitees. The claimant herein disregarded the open and obvious condition on the parkway, and walked onto the sinkhole area, which she testified was covered with leaves. Our Supreme Court cautioned, “Persons who own, occupy, or control and maintain land are not ordinarily required to foresee and protect against injuries from potentially dangerous conditions that are open and obvious.” Bucheleres v. Chicago Park District, 171 Ill.2d 435, 447-48, 216 Ill. Dec. 568, 665 N.E.2d 826, 832, (1996).

The claimant has also failed to prove actual or constructive notice of the defect. IDOT records and testimony indicate that no phone complaints were made about the sinkhole to IDOT for the six months prior to the fall. IDOT records and testimony revealed that no previous accidents or complaints were made about the sinkhole for the two-year period prior to the accident. Though the claimant testified she previously searched for golf balls in the parkway, she never testified that she made complaints about the sinkhole either before or after the accident. Claimant presented no evidence as to how long the sinkhole existed. The photographs of the parkway show an open and obvious depression next to the sewer. Neither the testimony nor the photographs are instructive as to the length of time the depression existed.

After the claim was filed in the Court of Claims IDOT went to the parkway to evaluate ownership, control, and maintenance issues. The parkway area is not a designated walkway designed by the Respondent and does not appear to be an area generally used by the public, though no restrictions existed prohibiting individuals from using the parkway as a walkway.

The Claimant urges the Court to find constructive notice based upon Stojentin v. State of Illinois, 55 Ill. Ct. Cl. 292 (1999). In Stojentin, however, the Claimant tripped and fell in a pothole on a street crosswalk. The Claimant here fell in a parkway. Parkway are not constructed with the intention of accommodating the kind of pedestrian traffic that is commonly associated with sidewalks. (Marshall v. City of Centralia (1991), 155 Ill. Dec. 802, 570 N.E.2d 315, 319.) The duty of care with regard to parkways is not identical to the care with regard to sidewalks. Pedestrians who leave the sidewalk cannot assume that parkways are free of defects or undulations as they otherwise could when traveling on the sidewalk supra, at 319. Municipalities cannot be held liable for parkway conditions, which are customary, even though such conditions may be slightly dangerous. The Illinois Supreme Court in Marshall, supra, at 319-320, citing (Schaut v. St. Marys (1940), 141 Pa.Super. 388, 392, 14 A.2d at 585).

To create a duty for the State to seek out and level every sinkhole or parkway depression on State property where persons might walk would make the State an insurer of the safety of all of those who walk on its property. The Case law has consistently held to the contrary and that the State is not an insurer of the safety of all who walk on its property.

For the foregoing reasons it is hereby ordered that this claim be, and hereby is, DENIED.

ORDER

Sprague, C.J.

Claimant, an inmate with the Illinois Department of Corrections and incarcerated at Pontiac Correctional Center, is seeking $45,000.00 for personal injuries sustained when he was attacked by inmates on March 31, 2003, while incarcerated at the Menard Correctional Center. Claimant further claims correctional staff used an excessive amount of chemical agent on him in an effort to break up the fight. Claimant alleges his injuries are the direct result of Respondent's negligence. Claimant filed a grievance with Illinois Department of Corrections on April 10, 2003, seeking compensation for the injury. The grievance was subsequently reviewed by the Administrative Review Board and denied on May 7, 2003. After receiving an unsatisfactory determination, Claimant filed the present complaint with the Court of Claims on January 6, 2004.

FACTS

Claimant alleges that on or about March 31, 2003, he was placed in protective custody in the "C Wing" at Menard Correctional Center. While in the yard section of "C Wing", Claimant was involved in a fight with another inmate named Carr #A-75014, when he was compelled to defend himself. Correctional Officer Meyer testified he verbally ordered both Claimant and Carr to immediately cease fighting. The inmates did not obey his verbal command. In an effort stop the fighting, Officer Meyer sprayed a three (3) second burst of “mace” on both Claimant and Carr. He further testified his actions were within established policy and procedures at Menard. He further testified, to his knowledge, Claimant and Carr were not known enemies. After the incident, claimant received medical treatment where his eyes were flushed with water. Claimant did not seek additional medical care, however, he has made allegations of “emotional stress”, but has not sought psychiatric care as a result of the incident. On May 13, 2003, Claimant pleaded guilty to a violation of fighting, but insisted he did so in “self defense”. Claimant is seeking $45,000 for medical expenses and emotional distress due to Respondent’s negligence. Claimant did not present evidence of medical expenses to support his claim for $45,000.

Respondent offered testimony that Claimant and fellow inmate Carr were involved in a fight in the yard of “C Wing” and were not know enemies. Both Claimant and Carr refused to obey Officer Meyer’s verbal command to cease fighting. Officer Meyer followed established Correctional Center policy and procedures by using “mace” to stop fighting and as such, should not be liable for Claimant’s injuries.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The law provides that to prevail on a claim of negligence, Claimant must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the State had a duty to protect Claimant from harm, that the duty was breached and that the breach was the proximate cause of Claimant’s injury. Ratcliff v. State of Illinois (1995) 48 Ill. Ct. Cl. 137 at 140, The State clearly owes its inmates a duty of protection and must exercise reasonable care where he is concerned, however, the State is not the insurer of the safety of its prisoners Ratcliff at p.140.

Claimant is not required to prove that the State had actual knowledge of the dangerous condition, however, Claimant must establish that the State could have discovered the dangerous condition by the exercise of reasonable care. Long v. State of Illinois (1986) 40 Ill. Ct. Cl. 39 at 42. In the absence of proof that Respondent’s agents anticipated or could have reasonably anticipated illegal or improper acts against Claimant, the State is not liable. Castle v. State of Illinois (1993) 45 Ill. Ct. Cl. 250 at 252.

In the present case, Claimant proved he was injured as a direct result of being sprayed in the face with “mace”. The Respondent does not deny the injury occurred but is not liable for damages because it used reasonable care in breaking up a fight that could have resulted in more serious injuries. “Mace” was used only because Claimant failed to follow Officer Meyer’s verbal command to cease fighting. It is well settled under Ratcliff v. State of Illinois (1995) 48 Ill. Ct. Cl. 137 at 140 and Long v. State of Illinois (1986) 40 Ill. Ct. Cl. 39 at 42 above, the State clearly owes its inmates a duty of protection and must exercise reasonable care where he is concerned, however, the State is not the insurer of the safety of its prisoners. Ratcliff at p.140. Here, there was no breach of duty and Respondent clearly used reasonable care in breaking up a fight between inmates. Claimant also failed to prove he sustained medical expenses and emotional distress amounting to $45,000.

ORDER

Birnbaum, J.

This case is before the Court on Respondent's Motion for Summary Judgment filed on May 30, 2008. Claimant was given until July 1, 2008, to file a response and failed to do so.

By way of background, Claimant filed a complaint on May 7, 2004, for an alleged breach of contract, seeking $19,125 in damages and an unspecified amount of interest and costs as well as $100 in attorney's fees. According to Respondent's Motion, Claimant took advantage of an incentive to retire early from the Illinois Department of Public Health in December 2002. As a condition of the early retirement incentive, a restriction was placed on Claimant's future employment that limited her to working 75 days each calendar year for the State of Illinois. If she worked any part of a day after already having worked 75 days in a calendar year for the State of Illinois, Claimant would lose her retirement benefits.

In 2003, Claimant had a contract with the Illinois Department of Public Health to work 75 days. During that contract, Claimant met with Illinois Department of Corrections (IDOC) Addiction Recovery Management Services Coordinator Dona Howell over lunch. Claimant alleges that during that May lunch meeting, she entered into an oral agreement to work for IDOC on a 75 day contract to develop an evaluation of the Sheridan Correctional Center drug project. No emergency circumstances existed at the time pertinent to the subject of the contract. Because of her 75 day Public Health contract in 2003, Claimant understood that she could not accept employment prior to January 2004 under the rules of the early retirement incentive.

In November 2003, Claimant received a letter from Steven Karr, the Acting Manager of the Planning and Research Unit of IDOC, which Claimant understood to be the beginning of the process of employment and preliminary in the negotiation of the alleged employment contract. In December 2003, Claimant alleges that the New Mexico Department of Public Health offered her a $20,000 employment contract. Feeling that she could not accept the additional work due to the commitment required by IDOC, Claimant turned down the New Mexico contract.

Claimant was given the option to start work for IDOC on December 16, 2003, or January 1, 2004. Karr indicated to Claimant that some preliminaries meetings would take place in December. Claimant and Karr exchanged a series of emails regarding these meetings and preliminary paperwork. Other administrators expressed concern about Claimant not participating in the December meetings, characterizing her as “uncooperative” and “not enthusiastic” about the proposed position. A decision was made to find someone else for the position, though IDOC did not tell Claimant of this decision until she arrived at IDOC’s Planning and Research Unit on January 5, 2004. Claimant arrived at approximately 10 a.m. that day for preliminary paperwork and processing and was informed that she was not getting the contract. Thus, no processing took place and no contract was signed.

In January 2004, Claimant obtained a $20,000, three-month employment contract to begin March 1, 2004, with the New Mexico Department of Public Health. In May 2004, Claimant obtained a 75 day employment contract in the amount of $19,125 with the Illinois Department on Aging to begin work on June 14, 2004.

A moving party is entitled to summary judgment as a matter of law if there is no genuine issue as to any material fact. 735 ILCS 5/2-1005(c). Since Claimant failed to respond to Respondent's Motion for Summary Judgment, the facts alleged in that Motion are considered undisputed.

To prevail on an employment contract theory, Claimant must first prove the existence of such a contract. Sennstrom v. State, 46 Ill. Ct. Cl. 304 (1993). In a breach of contract case, Claimant also bears the burden of pleading and proving the contract, the breach, and the damages. James Cape & Sons Co. v. State, 52 Ill. Ct. Cl. 322 (2000). Claimant also bears the burden of proving an enforceable oral contract of employment. Sennstrom, supra.

This Court generally does not enforce oral contracts against the State, although an exception exists for oral contracts to provide services in an emergency. Sbigoli v. State, 53 Ill. Ct. Cl. 215 (2000). There is no evidence that an emergency existed in this case, thus a written contract is necessary to be enforceable. If any contract existed, it was, at best, oral. Claimant acknowledges this in the complaint.

However, even if this Court found that an enforceable contract existed, Claimant mitigated any damages sought. Specifically, Claimant obtained a $20,000 contract with the New Mexico Department of Health and a $19,125 contract with the Illinois Department on Aging for 2004. In contract actions in the Court of Claims, Claimant has the burden of proof, and the obligation to prove his damages by a preponderance of the evidence. Winters v. State, 54 Ill. Ct. Cl. 337 (2001). Claimant fails to provide this Court a basis to establish any damages suffered given the alternative employment sought and obtained by Claimant. Further, since Claimant failed to file a response to Respondent's Motion, this Court is left with nothing except the facts contained therein as a basis to establish the element of damages, which as set forth above, appear to have been sufficiently mitigated. There is no evidence that Claimant lost any retirement benefits, so it is unclear what damages Claimant actually suffered.

Accordingly, Respondent's Motion for Summary Judgment is GRANTED and this matter is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

CAROLE D. HERMANN, Claimant, v. SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY AT EDWARDSVILLE, Respondent.

Opinion filed April 10, 2009

BRAD L. BADGLEY, Counsel for Claimant
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (BRADLEY R BUCHER, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Negligence-Elements-Claimant must establish a duty owed to Claimant by Respondent, a breach of that duty, and damages resulting proximately from that breach.

Negligence-University's Duty of Care-The Respondent, Southern Illinois University of Edwardsville, owes a duty to maintain its premises in reasonably safe conditions for the public's use, but it is not an insurer of the safety of persons who visit the property.

Negligence-Fall from sidewalk-Respondent was not negligent when Claimant fell and injured herself on a sidewalk on campus because the condition of the sidewalk was not an unreasonable hazard and Claimant must assume the responsibility of exiting the designated walkway that caused her injury.

OPINION

Sprague, C.J.

Claimant filed a Complaint for monetary damages. The Complaint alleges that she was injured when she fell on the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus. A hearing was held before Commissioner Ysursa on October 6, 2008. Claimant was represented by Brad L. Badgley, and Assistant Attorney General Bradley R. Bucher represented Respondent.

I. Background

Claimant alleges that she fell when she tripped on an uneven seam on a campus sidewalk causing her to lose her balance and fall off of the sidewalk. She alleges that when she fell off the sidewalk she twisted her ankle on a four (4) inch drop from the edge of the sidewalk to the ground. The twisting of her ankle caused her to fall and break her leg. She alleges due to the fall she broke her right humerus, right knee cap and injured her left shoulder. Respondent asserts that the condition was not unreasonably safe and if it was there is no evidence that Respondent had notice of the condition. Respondent also asserts that Claimant was contributorily negligent.

Claimant testified that on December 2, 2005 she came to SIUE to turn in a paper. Claimant was a 49 year old graduate student at the time. She went to campus with her son. She testified that on the date in question she parked in parking lot A. She proceeded with her son to tour the campus. After walking around campus she turned in her paper at an office located in Founder's Hall. After turning in her paper she proceeded to walk from Founder's Hall to her car in parking lot A.

Claimant testified that she was walking on a SIUE sidewalk when she tripped on a seam of the sidewalk. She stated that the sidewalk was an asphalt sidewalk. The area where she tripped was a connection seam between two pieces of asphalt. The connection formed a lip wherein one piece of asphalt was approximately a quarter of an inch higher than the other piece of asphalt. Claimant asserts that when she tripped she stumbled and her foot slipped off of the side of the asphalt sidewalk. She stated that there was about a four (4) inch drop from the sidewalk to the ground next to it. This drop caused her to twist her ankle and fall. The fall resulted in her breaking her leg, knee cap and shoulder.

On cross-examination, Claimant conceded that at the time of her tripping she was distracted by someone speaking. She testified on direct that she was walking on the sidewalk at the time of the fall, but on cross-examination Respondent's counsel pointed out that at her discovery deposition she stated that she was cutting the corner of the sidewalk. She conceded that when she was walking on the date in question she intended to exit on the side of the sidewalk in order to cut a corner on her way to parking lot A. On cross-examination Claimant stated that at the time of her fall the campus lights were coming on and those lights distracted her.

Claimant presented her treating physician testimony of Dr. Leesa M. Galatz via evidence deposition. As this Court finds no liability on the part of Respondent, there is no need to summarize Dr. Galatz's testimony. Respondent called Michale Klutho a SIUE police officer. Klutho responded to the scene after Claimant fell. He did not witness the fall so he cannot offer any testimony as to the fall. Klutho did testify that he was unaware of any reports of injuries from falls due to the uneven surface of the sidewalk on campus.

II. Analysis

Claimant has made a claim for negligence. In order to prevail, Claimant must establish a duty owed to Claimant, a breach of that duty, and damages resulting proximately from that breach. Chandler v. Illinois Central Railroad Co., 207 Ill. 2d 331, 340, 798 N.E.2d 724, 729 (2003). It is undisputed that the Respondent owes a duty to maintain its premises in reasonably safe condition for the use of the public. Daniels v. State of Illinois, 53 Ill. Ct. Cl. 116 (2000); Bahl v. State of Illinois, 49 Ill. Ct. Cl. 120 (1997). In order to establish the breach of the duty by Respondent the Claimant must establish actual or constructive notice of the defect. Bahl v. State of Illinois, 49 Ill. Ct. Cl. 120 (1997). While Respondent owes a duty of care, it is not an insurer of the safety of persons who visit its property. Id.

The Respondent had a duty to maintain its property in reasonably safe condition. Claimant asserts that Respondent breached this duty by having a sidewalk with a seam that results in an even surface. Claimant asserts that this uneven surface constituted an unreasonable tripping hazard. Claimant further asserts that the four (4) inch drop from the asphalt sidewalk to the ground is unreasonable. Claimant bears the burden of proving that the sidewalk was unreasonably safe.

Respondent is not the insurer of safety for all that walk on its property. In order to be liable the hazard must be so unsafe that a reasonable person would demonstrate an unreasonable hazard. In this case, the evidence does not demonstrate an unreasonable hazard. Respondent cannot guarantee that every sidewalk is perfect. Certainly Respondent is responsible for hazards that it creates but common sense dictates that an uneven sidewalk is not an unreasonable hazard. Further, the evidence in this case indicate that Claimant was distracted by others speaking and by the campus lights coming on at the time of her fall. Finally, Claimant testified that she was intending to exit the sidewalk to take a shortcut. While Respondent still owes a duty Claimant must assume responsibility when she exits the designated sidewalk.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant's claim is denied.

GARY MICHAELIS, pro se

LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (LYNN PALMGREN, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent

Jurisdiction-The State cannot be held vicariously liable for the actions of non-state actors. The only proper Respondent in the Court of Claims is the State of Illinois and its divisions.

Jurisdiction-Federal and state constitutional issues, as well as claims based on federal statute, are outside the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims.

Exhaustion of remedies-Claimant must exhaust all other remedies against all other sources of recovery for injury or damages prior to seeking final determination of his claim in the Court of Claims.

ORDER

Birnbaum, J.

This matter coming before the Court to be heard on Respondent’s Motion to Dismiss, the Court being fully advised in the premises finds that,

On November 2, 2006, Claimant filed a complaint in the Court of Claims alleging he suffered from “harassment, physical assault, forced detention, defamation and deprivation of [ ] civil rights. Claimant is seeking $10,000,000.00 in damages.

Claimant alleges the following in his complaint: On October 28, 2005, Claimant’s then wife obtained an Order for Detention and Examination against Claimant. The South Elgin Police Department picked Claimant up on October 30, 2005 and took him to the Elgin Mental Health Center. Claimant states he was detained there against his will until November 5, 2005. During this time, Claimant asserts the staff of the Elgin Mental Health Center humiliated and harassed Claimant, and used unnecessary force.

Claimant alleges that the Elgin Mental Health Center violated Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act, failed to provide him with reasonable accommodations and equal access to services. He further alleges that the Elgin Mental Health Center discriminated against him because he is disabled by “requiring disrobing” in order to be admitted into psychiatric care.

ANALYSIS

I. Lack of Jurisdiction Over Certain Respondents

Claimant has named the following parties as Respondents in this case the State of Illinois, South Elgin Police Department, Elgin Mental Health Center, Kane County Sheriff’s Department, and Agents, Officer Rick Wessel, South Elgin Police Chief Merritt, and Kane County Sheriff Ken Ramsey. This Court lacks jurisdiction over the Kane County Sheriff’s Department and South Elgin Police Department and their respective agents.

This Court has previously ruled on the issue of whether the State can be held liable for negligent acts of county public officials Sherry v. State, 55 Ill.Ct. Cl. 437 (2002) (involving Sheriff’s Department of Kane County, County of Kane, and State’s Attorney of Kane County), Alencastro v. State, 54 Ill. Ct. Cl. 457 (2001) (involving Sheriff Cook County), Washington v. State (involving State’s Attorney of Cook County) and Washlow v. State (involving Clerk of the Circuit Court of Livingston County), 54 Ill. Ct. Cl. 317 (2001). The above-cited cases, provide a review of the issue of jurisdiction over these offices and liability of the State in these circumstances. Throughout this line of cases this Court has held that under the current statutory and constitutional structures governing the Court, the State cannot be held vicariously liable for the actions of a Sheriff, County Clerk or State’s Attorney, nor does it have jurisdiction over those officials.

This Court has exclusive and limited jurisdiction over claims against the State of Illinois, and only the State, as set forth in the Court of Claims Act, 705 ILCS 505/1 et seq. The only proper Respondent before the Court of Claims is the State of Illinois, and the divisions thereof, namely, Elgin Mental Health Center. Therefore, this Court lacks jurisdiction over the South Elgin Police Department, Kane County Sheriff’s Department, and Agents, Officer Rick Wessel, South Elgin Police Chief Merritt, and Kane County Sheriff Ken Ramsey.

II. Lack of Jurisdiction Over Claimant's Alleged Claim

Claimant alleges that this Court has jurisdiction in the instant case under Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C. §12188(a), and 29 U.S.C. 794(a) as questions of federal law pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1331. He also alleges this Court has supplemental jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1367 under the Court of Claims Regulations, 74 Ill. Admin. Code 790.

Claimant alleges his constitutional right to vote was denied on November 2, 2004. Claimant then cites to the Illinois Constitution, Article III, §§1-2. He further alleges that his constitutional right to privacy “was violated with the [cassette tape] recordings on my tape recorder were heard by others without my consent and/or when possession of it was given to other without legal authority and/or my consent .” Then, Claimant cites the Illinois Constitution Article I, §6. Claimant further alleges that the Elgin Mental Health Center failed to provide public accommodations, discriminated against him and provided unequal access to services while he was in their care, all in violation of 42 U.S.C. § 12182(a).

The Court of Claims, being a Court of limited jurisdiction pursuant to statute, does not have subject matter jurisdiction to entertain claims based on federal statute, Farrell v. State, 52 Ill. Ct. Cl. 275 (2000). Furthermore, federal and state constitutional issues are outside the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims. Smart v. State, 48 Ill. Ct. Cl. 38 (1996) (citing Reyes v. State, 35 Ill. Ct. Cl. 498 (1979), Winzeler Trucking Co. v. State, Ill. Ct. Cl. 191 (1978) (holding the Court of Claims does not have statutory authority to hear alleged violations of equal protection and due process under federal and state constitutions).

In Ziegler v. State, 55 Ill. Ct. Cl. 405 (2002), the Court further explained:

This Court is a creature of Illinois statute, and our limited jurisdiction is solely what the General Assembly has granted by law. If a subject matter is not enumerated or encompassed by the jurisdictional grant in our enabling Act ([Section] 8, Court of Claims Act, 705 ILCS 505/8), and if the jurisdiction over that subject is not granted by another Illinois statute, that subject does not lie within our adjudicatory jurisdiction to hear and determine claims against the State. Federal statutory and constitutional claims are among the subjects that are not mentioned in [section] 8 of the Court of Claims Act, our primary jurisdictional statute and thus this Court has long held that it lacks jurisdiction over claims arising under federal law.

In sum, this Court lacks jurisdiction to consider Claimant's alleged federal and constitutional claims.

III. Failure to Exhaust All Other Remedies

Claimant has failed to exhaust all other remedies available to him. Both section 790.60 of the Court of Claims Regulations and Section 505/25 of the Court of Claims Act require the Claimant to exhaust all other remedies against all other sources of recovery for injury or damages prior to seeking final determination of his claim in the Court of Claims. 705 ILCS 505/25, 74 Ill. Admin. Code 790.60. This Court has previously held that it does not "seem to recognize any discretion on the part of claimants to pick and choose whom they wish to sue." Boe v. State, 37 Ill. Ct. Cl. 72 (1984).

In Boe, the Court quoted the holding from Lyons v. State, 34 Ill. Ct. Cl. 268, 271-72 (1981) stating:

The requirement that Claimant exhaust all available remedies prior to seeking a determination in this Court is clear and definite in its terms. It is apparent to the Court that Claimant has sufficient time to both become aware of his other remedies and to pursue them accordingly. The fact that Claimant can no longer pursue those remedies cannot be a defense to the exhaustion requirement. If the Court were to waive the exhaustion of remedies requirement merely because Claimant waited until it was too late to avail himself of the other remedies, the requirement would be transformed into an option, to be accepted or ignored according to the whim of all claimants. We believe that the language of section 25 of the Court of Claims Act (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1979, ch 37, par. 439 24-5) and Rule 6 of the Rules of the Court of Claims quite clearly makes the exhaustion of remedies mandatory rather than optional.

Section 790.90 of the Court of Claims Regulations demands dismissal if there is not compliance with the provisions in section 790.60 of the Court of Claims Regulations requiring exhaustion of remedies 74 Ill. Admin, Code 790.90. Claimant has not complied with section 790.60 of the Court of Claims Regulations and section 505/25 of the Court of Claims Act 705 ILCS 505/25, 74 Ill. Admin. Code 790.60. It does not appear that Claimant has complied with the Court of Claims Act and exhausted all other sources of possible recovery. There is no indication in the Complaint that Claimant has sued any of the non-state 'Respondents' in other venues.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that Respondent's Motion be, and the same is, hereby granted, and the claim herein is Dismissed, With Prejudice.

(No. 07-CC-2812 – Claim denied)

TERESA PETERSON, Claimant, v. ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES, Respondent.

Opinion filed June 3, 2009

CINDY A. SCOLARO, Counsel for Claimant

LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (JILL OTTE, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Negligence-Elements-Claimant must show the existence of a duty that respondent owed him; that the respondent breached that duty; and that as a proximate result of the breach the claimant suffered damages.

Negligence-Duty-One owes a duty of ordinary care to guard against injuries to others that may result as a reasonably probable and foreseeable consequence of negligent conduct.

Negligence-State's duty toward State park invitees-Visitors of State parks are invitees to whom the State owes a duty of reasonable care in maintaining the premises and in protecting its invitees from harm. However, the State is not an insurer of the safety of all persons visiting its parks. Furthermore, the State is not required to undertake extraordinarily burdensome inspections or maintain its parks in such condition that patrons may wander at will over each and every portion thereof.

Negligence-Notice-To establish that a respondent breached its duty to a claimant in premises liability cases, the claimant must establish that the State had either actual or constructive notice of the defect or dangerous condition that allegedly caused his injuries.

Negligence-Factors determining whether the conduct creating an allegedly dangerous situation is reasonable-The magnitude of the risk, the burden of requiring the State to guard against the risk, and the consequences of placing such a burden on the State.

Negligence-Respondent was not negligent in allowing the positioning of picnic tables near parking blocks at a State park, as they did not create a risk of foreseeable harm constituting a defect or dangerous condition.

OPINION

Reid, J.

Claimant Teresa Peterson, brings this claim in Tort for a left-leg injury requiring a cast. She injured her leg as a result of slamming her foot into a concrete parking block located at Illinois Beach State Park, which is owned and operated by the State of Illinois and the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR). Peterson, a lawful patron of the park at the time of her fall, asserts that her fall and the damages related to it occurred because Respondent breached its duty to her by failing to take proper measures to protect her from harm. Claimant seeks $50,000.00 in damages as well as costs related to this suit. This claim was heard before a Commissioner on Sept. 9, 2008.

Factual Background

Claimant testified that on July 14, 2006, she arrived at Illinois Beach State Park around 4:00 p.m., accompanied by her son, Dakota (then 9), her friend Vickie Hodo, and Vickie's daughter, Jasmine (then 13). After swimming a few hours, claimant and her companions headed to their campsite, campsite #136. Claimant stated that she camped near this site once before and that for the last seven years she and her family camped at the park twice a year.

Claimant testified that they were drawn to the instant campsite because the picnic tables were close together. This meant that she and her friend could relax at one picnic table while still being near their children at the other table. Claimant recalled that they were making dinner. Vickie was away from the tables and tents starting the fire while Claimant chopped onions at her picnic table. Both children were at the other table, which was to her left.

As she was chopping onions, Dakota yelled, "Mom, there is a man going through our stuff!" Claimant saw the backside of a man going through their belongings, standing a few feet away from the children. Frightened for her son's safety, she quickly got up to walk toward the man, and in the process of doing so, slammed her foot against the concrete parking block. She had not seen the parking block until she hit it. Despite her excruciating pain, she limped toward the man. As he turned around, she saw his badge and realized he was a park official.

Claimant stated that, unbeknownst to her, the park changed its alcohol policy two months ago, and alcohol was prohibited at her campsite. The official, Officer James Prater, had noticed alcohol at Claimant's campsite, which is why he was going through their belongings. Claimant testified that Prater issued her a citation for having alcohol in the park. Claimant told him about the pain in her foot, and he told her where to get ice but did not assist her in obtaining it. Consequently, Claimant suffered an injury to her left leg that required a cast. Vickie Hodo also testified at the hearing and corroborated Claimant's recollection of the incident.

Officer James Prater testified at the hearing, and did not have independent recollection of the incident other than remembering that Claimant had an aggressive attitude when he issued her the citation. Based on the citation, Prater testified that he saw a can of Miller beer at the campsite around 7pm and that he issued Claimant a citation several minutes later.

He was shown a picture of the campsite taken the morning after the incident, and asked if there was anything unusual about the positioning of the picnic tables. He replied that there was not, adding that campers were free to move the tables to suit their convenience as long as they did not remove them from the camp site. He was also shown a picture of the parking block, also taken the morning after the incident. When asked about the weeds surrounding the block, he acknowledged the weeds surrounding it, but added that they were not obstructing the block from view, opining that it was clearly visible. Prater, who had worked for the IDNR for nine years, testified that he did not recall any parking block related injuries like Claimant's prior to the date in question.

Greg Behm, the park's site superintendent testified at the hearing that he made the Significant Visitor Accident Report the day after Claimant's injury. He went with Claimant to campsite #136 to write the report. He and Claimant took pictures of the parking block and the picnic table she was sitting at when the incident occurred. When shown the pictures of the parking block, he noted that the surrounding weeds indicated that the block had been there a while and had not been moved. He later elaborated that the parking blocks had to be moved by a tractor with forks on it. He stated that the parking blocks (six to eight feet long; six to twelve inches wide; and six to eight inches tall) were installed at every campsite to ensure that vehicles remain in their designated areas where they have access to electric pedestals.

He testified that there were no regulations regarding how close campers could place picnic tables to the concrete parking blocks. Campers were free to move picnic tables anywhere within the campsite except over the fire-ring. Campers were not permitted to move tables outside the campsite. He testified that close to two million people visited the 4,100 acre park each year. He testified that he worked at IDNR for 33 years, and as of the hearing date, 40 months at Illinois Beach State Park. He did not recall any parking block related injuries like Claimant's prior to the date in question.

Analysis

To state a cause of action sounding in negligence, a claimant must assert facts establishing the following: the existence of a duty that respondent owed him; the respondent breached duty; and that as a proximate result of the breach the claimant suffered damages Estate of Johnson by Johnson v. Condell Memorial Hosp, 119 Ill.2d 496 (1988). Generally, one owes a duty of ordinary care to guard against injuries to others that may result as a reasonably probable and foreseeable consequence of negligent conduct Karas v. Strevell, 369 Ill.App.3d 884, 889 (2nd Dist. 2006).

Claimant asserts that Respondent was negligent on three levels: 1. Prater was negligent in his conduct because it was foreseeable that Claimant would become startled and hurt herself where Prater did not announce himself before going through Claimant's belongings at dusk and only her children and female friend accompanied her; 2. Respondent was negligent in its failure to have a policy regulating placement of the picnic tables at the campsite because it is foreseeable that Claimant might slam into a parking block because a previous camper placed her picnic table too close to it; 3. Respondent was negligent in allowing an overgrowth of vegetation around the block because it was foreseeable that Claimant would not see the block and injure herself.

We first address whether the vegetation covered the parking block, to the extent that it was foreseeable that Claimant would not see it and injure herself. The pictures of the parking block show the majority of the vegetation covering the base of the block, with some scant vegetation spanning slightly higher than the height of the entire block. However we find that the white parking block, six to eight feet long; six to twelve inches wide; and six to eight inches tall, was clearly visible amidst the brown and green vegetation. It could not have been foreseeable that someone would have injured herself because she did not see it. Thus, Respondent was not negligent in failing to rectify a condition that could not have foreseeable caused Claimant's injury.

As for Prater's actions, it may be foreseeable that someone alarmed or startled upon seeing a stranger rummaging through her belongings at her campsite, but such a reaction is less likely where the stranger, like Prater, is in uniform. Regardless, Claimant's reactions went beyond any foreseeable alarmed or startled response; she stated that she jumped from her picnic table and slammed her foot into a parking block about five feet away. Accordingly, Prater was not negligent in how he approached Claimant.

The picnic table policy warrants a more detailed discussion. With respect to the State and its parks, visitors of State parks are invitees to whom the State owes a duty of reasonable care in maintaining the premises (Heimann v. State (1977), 32 Ill. Ct. Cl. 111), and in protecting its invitees from harm (Jodlowski v. State (1967), 26 Ill. Ct. Cl. 66). However the State is not an insurer of the safety of all persons visiting its parks (Bahl v. State (1997), 49 Ill.Ct.Cl. 120); and accordingly, the State is not required to undertake extraordinarily burdensome inspections or maintain its parks in such condition that patrons may wander at will over each and every portion thereof Lyons v. State (1987), 39 Ill.Ct.Cl. 192; Pulizanno v. State (1956), 22 Ill.Ct.Cl. 234.

The resolution of Claimant's claim hinges on foreseeability; specifically, the relevant inquiry here is whether the State's duty of reasonable care in maintaining its premises and protecting its invitees from a foreseeable risk of harm included a duty to protect Claimant from the concrete parking block at the campsite.<sup>1</sup> The State can only be liable if it failed to protect Claimant from a risk of harm that was foreseeable. Thus, to establish that a respondent breached its duty to a claimant in premises liability cases, the claimant must establish that the State had either actual or constructive notice of the defect or dangerous condition that allegedly caused his injuries. See Dunbar v. State (1992), 45 Ill. Ct. Cl. 175.

Here, notice of the condition is not at issue. Respondent had notice about the parking block because Respondent installed one at each of the campsites. Further, by virtue of its policy permitting campers to move picnic tables wherever they want within their campsites, Respondent was on notice that the picnic tables could be placed next to parking blocks. What this Court must determine, however, is whether this condition that Respondent had notice of created a risk of foreseeable harm, thus rendering it a dangerous condition.

<sup>1</sup>The issues of duty, breach, and proximate cause are not completely separate. Foreseeability is a factor both in determining duty and in determining proximate cause. It is possible to deal with most of the questions which arise in a negligence case in terms of duty. (W. Keeton, Prosser & Keeton on Torts § 53, at 356 (5th ed. 1984).) Such an approach may in fact be helpful because it may direct attention to the policy issues which determine the extent of the original obligation, rather than to the mechanical sequence of events which goes to make up causation in fact Benner v. Bell, 236 Ill.App.3d 761, 765 602 N.E.2d 896, 899, 177 Ill.Dec. 1, 4 (Ill.App. 4 Dist., 1992).

In addressing whether a defect or condition is dangerous and constitutes a risk of foreseeable harm that a respondent has a duty to protect a claimant from, we have focused on the nature of the condition itself and whether the State had a reasonable reason for maintaining the condition or engaging in the underlying conduct creating it. See van Der Heyden v. State (1996), 48 Ill.Ct.Cl. 341; Wilson v. State (1989), 41 Ill.Ct.Cl. 50).

In van Der Heyden, the claimant cut across established trails and tried to circumvent the entrance gate to get to his vehicle. In negotiating his way back to the parking lot, the claimant permanently injured his elbow after tripping over a cable connecting concrete-filled barrels as part of a barricade system, on the east side of the entrance.

This Court found that the barricade and cable system installed by the State of Illinois at Starved Rock Park near the main vehicular entrance and in four other areas of the park, did not constitute a dangerous condition. We reasoned that the State could not have known that the barricades represented a dangerous condition to park users since in the 12 years after installation of the barricade, and in the nearly five years after the injury but prior to the trial, there were no reported incidents. Further, the State had a reasonable purpose behind implementing the barricades: to ameliorate a serious problem of criminal trespass to park grounds after curfew. See van Der Heyden at 345.

Here, to establish her claim, Claimant must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the State had, or should have had, reason to believe that a picnic table next to a parking block constituted a dangerous condition and that the underlying conduct creating the condition—the Respondent’s policy of not regulating picnic table placement with the campsites—was unreasonable. Here, claimant establishes neither element. Pursuant to van Der Heyden, the easiest way to show that the State had, or should have had, reason to believe that a picnic table close to a parking block constituted a dangerous condition, is by presenting evidence of prior injuries like Claimant’s. However, the record does not contain any. Respondent had no reason to believe that a picnic table next to a parking block could be a dangerous condition. Two million visitors a year in a 441 acre park where every campsite has a concrete parking block and picnic tables that can be moved next to it, and no one has had an injury like Claimant’s.

Nor can Claimant rely on common experience or common sense to assert that a picnic table next to a parking block constitutes a dangerous condition. An injury to a camper is not a foreseeable consequence of the juxtaposition of parking blocks and picnic tables, such that it constitutes a dangerous condition. If anything, the parking blocks in question are open and obvious; they are relatively large and unobstructed objects<sup>2</sup> that are six to eight feet long; six to twelve inches wide; and six to eight inches tall. Claimant has failed to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the State had, should have had, reason to believe that the table next to the parking block constituted a dangerous condition.

Nor has claimant established that Respondent was unreasonable for failing to have a policy regulating picnic table placement. In Wilson v. State (1989), 41 Ill. Ct. Cl. 50, this Court analyzed the following factors in determining whether the conduct creating an allegedly dangerous condition was reasonable: the magnitude of the risk, the burden of requiring the State to guard against the risk, and the consequences of placing such a burden on the State Wilson at 55.

In Wilson, the claimant brought a wrongful death action against the State where decedent died in an automobile that suddenly left the pavement and struck a tree about 15 feet from the east edge of the paved portion of the roadway. One of the counts in the complaint asserted that the State was negligent in not removing the tree from the area within 15 feet of the edge of the roadway because it constituted a hazard for vehicles which may leave the roadway. Applying the factors discussed supra, this Court held that the State had no duty to remove the tree since the State was well within the applicable standards that only required a 10-foot clearance zone along that roadway.

In light of the minimal risk picnic table placement poses, the burden of requiring the State to regulate such placement seems quite unnecessary, especially since the burden would be onerous.

<sup>2</sup>Since Claimant provides a picture of only the unobstructed parking block at her campsite, based on this evidence alone, we cannot find that all of the parking blocks at the park were unobstructed. However, this picture coupled with evidence that there were no reported parking block-related accidents at the park, allows us to safely find that the other parking blocks in the park are similarly unobstructed.

To guard the against this risk, the State would have to keep the picnic tables in a set configuration and prohibit campers from moving them. To ensure this regulation was followed, the State would have to either permanently affix the tables to the campsite or have its officers check a campsite every time a camper checks out.

This is too high a burden. As stated supra, the State is not required to undertake extraordinarily burdensome inspections. More importantly, the consequences of such a burden would greatly diminish campers' ability to enjoy their campsites. The high burden on Respondent in imposing regulation, as well as the regulation's negative consequences, far outweigh the minimal risk of injury that is possible with no such regulation in place.

Accordingly, Respondent's policy permitting campers' unfettered movement of picnic tables within the campsite so that they can customize usage and maximize enjoyment, is reasonable.

Thus, the positioning of picnic tables near parking blocks did not create a risk of foreseeable harm constituting a defect or dangerous condition. Because Respondent only has a duty to protect Claimant from a risk of harm that is foreseeable, it did not have a duty to protect Claimant from this condition. Accordingly, we do not find Respondent negligent for failing to prevent a dangerous condition through its policy permitting campers to place picnic tables next to parking blocks and Claimant's claim is hereby DENIED.

Sprague, C.J.

Claimant filed a Complaint for monetary damages. The Complaint alleges that she was injured when she fell at the DuQuoin State Fair Grounds. A hearing was held before Commissioner Ysursa on November 6, 2008. Claimant was represented by William Wimmer, and Assistant General Geri Lynn Arrindell represented Respondent.

I. Background

Claimant alleges that she fell in a hole located on the DuQuoin State Fair Grounds on September 4, 2006. Claimant and her husband were at the DuQuoin State Fair Grounds for the ARCA Remax Series automobile races. At the time of the incident Claimant was walking from parking Lot 4 to the grandstands of the race track. She testifies that she was walking on a road leading from Lot 4 to the grandstands when she encountered a tram coming in the opposite direction on the road. She stated that she exited the roadway due to the oncoming tram and stepped into a six inch deep hole. She testified that after she stepped into the hole she fell forward and hit both knees on the roadway and then fell on her right shoulder.

It is undisputed that Claimant suffered a fractured left leg and a torn rotator cuff in her right shoulder. It was further stipulated that Claimant suffered $23,660.65 in medical damages and that the services were reasonable for like services in the area and were necessary to treat the injuries she suffered due to her fall. The sole issues are liability, contributory negligence and damages.

Creekmore testified that she suffered lost wages due to her injuries. She stated that due to her rotator cuff injury she was unable to use crutches and was therefore placed on bed rest for six to eight weeks. She stated that during this period that she could not work. When she was released to return to work in March 2007 she lost her job because her position had been replaced in January 2007. Claimant did not present any evidence to support this position, but Respondent did not contradict it. Claimant was out of work until October 2007 where she regained employment. She testified that she is being paid less in her current job as compared to her old job. Claimant did not present any evidence to support this testimony or attest for the future earning capacity of her current job, but Respondent did not contradict it. Claimant testified that during her injury she suffered increased costs for medical insurance costs for medical insurance and paid for benefits after she was hired at her new job. Claimant's alleged lost wages and incidental damages are contained in Claimant's Exhibit 10.

Claimant called her husband, Charles Gilbert Creekmore, to testify. Claimant's husband did not witness the fall as he was working in the pits at the time of the incident. Mr. Creekmore did corroborate Claimant's assertion of bed rest. Claimant's husband testified to having taken pictures of the hole in question in March 2007.

Respondent presented Jeffrey Mason, Building/Ground Manager at the DuQuoin State Fair Grounds. Mason testified as to the condition of the premises on the date in question. Mason stated that during the Labor Day Weekend prior to Claimant's fall there were numerous activities at the DuQuoin State Fair Grounds. On Friday there was a horse race, on Saturday a different car race and on Sunday the ARCA race. He stated that on Friday in the area Claimant's fall there was a temporary fence is supported by 1.5 inch posts. The posts are placed in the ground by using a 4 inch augur to dig a hole and then placing 1.5 inch posts into the hole. The posts are placed about every ten feet. Mason stated that the temporary fence up for Friday was removed prior to Claimant falling on Sunday. He testified that the general method of removing the posts involves pulling the posts out of the ground.

When the posts are pulled out the ground is disturbed resulting in holes left behind. Mason testified that all employees are instructed to fill in the holes and compact the ground.

II. Analysis

Claimant has made a claim for negligence. In order to prevail, Claimant must establish a duty owed to Claimant, a breach of that duty, and damages resulting proximately from that breach Chandler v. Illinois Central Railroad Co., 207 Ill. 2d 331, 340, 798 N.E. 2d 724, 729 (2003). It is undisputed that the Respondent owes a duty to maintain its premises in reasonably safe condition for the use of the public Daniels v. State of Illinois, 53 Ill. Ct. Cl. 116 (2000); Bahl v. State of Illinois, 49 Ill. Ct. Cl. 120 (1997). In order to establish the breach of the duty by Respondent the Claimant must establish actual or constructive notice of the defect Bahl v. State of Illinois, 49 Ill. Ct. Cl. 120 (1997). While Respondent owes a duty of care, it is not an insurer of the safety of persons who visit its property Bahl v. State of Illinois, 49 Ill. Ct. Cl. 120 (1997).

The Respondent had a duty to maintain its property in reasonably safe condition. Claimant asserts that Respondent breached this duty by creating a hole from the removal of the temporary fence post in an area that Respondent knew people would be walking. Building/Grounds Manager Mason testimony supports Claimant's claim that the hole was created by the removal of posts. Mason testified that there were posts in the area of where Claimant fell two days prior. Mason testified that at the time that Claimant fell the posts had been removed. Mason testified that the removal of posts automatically leaves a hole and that it is the duty of the fairgrounds employees to fix the holes. Based upon a totality of all evidence it is more likely than not that the hole in questions was created by Respondent.

The next issue is whether the hole was unreasonably unsafe. The testimony and evidence shows a small hole about 6-8 inches wide and about 6-8 inches deep. Claimant testified that the hole was covered with grass and ground debris. Respondent acknowledged the safety issue with the holes when Mason testified that the employees are tasked with filling in the holes for safety reasons. It is clear from the evidence that the hole presents and unreasonable tripping hazard due to its size and concealment.

The final question on Respondent's liability is notice. Actual or constructive notice is all that is required. In this case Respondent had actual notice due to the fact that as Mason testified the hole appeared to be the result of Respondent's employees removing posts from the ground and leaving the hole. It is axiomatic that if Respondent's employees created the hole they had notice of it. This is further supported by Mason's testimony that employees are instructed to fill in the holes after removing posts. This demonstrates that the creation of a hole from the removal of a post is known to the employees as it happens every time a post is removed. While Respondent is not the insurer of safety it is responsible for hazards that it creates.

The next consideration is contributory negligence since Respondent raised Claimant's negligence as an affirmative defense. Respondent bears the burden of establishing that Claimant was negligent and if the negligence is greater than 50% then the claim is denied Connor v. State of Illinois, 58 Ill. Ct. Cl. 211 (2005); Russell v. State, 42 Ill. Ct. Cl. 83 (1990). In this case, it is alleged that Claimant had a duty to watch where she was going. Certainly Claimant has such a duty but this was not a case of an open and obvious hazard. As such any contributory negligence is less than 50%. With that said Claimant cannot be relieved her duty to protect herself. The Court finds Claimant 25% contributorily negligent.

As for damages, the Parties stipulated to $23,660.65 in reasonable medical bills related to her fall. Claimant suffered a fractured leg and rotator cuff tear. She was placed on bed rest for six to eight weeks. Claimant suffered from the injury. Claimant did not present much evidence for loss of normal life. With that said $100,000 is fair compensation for her medical damages and pain and suffering.

Claimant presented a claim for $141,609.79 in lost wages and benefits. Claimant asserted that due to her injury she was out of work for eight weeks. Her rate of pay was $37,387.42 annually which equals $102.43 per day. She stated that while she was unable to work her job was given to another person. She did not gain new employment for over a year after her termination. She claims total loss of days 417. She also claims future lost wages due to her new job being less pay. She claims $97,278.18 projected over her remaining working life. She claims $1,618.30 in lost benefits.

Claimant is entitled to time off from the date of her injury until her doctor released her to work on March 5, 2007. This equals twenty-one weeks worth of lost pay due to her injury. Her weekly pay is $718.99. Her lost wages for twenty-one weeks equals $15,098.79. As for the remaining lost wage claim, Claimant did not present sufficient evidence to support her claim. The only evidence that she lost her job due to her injury is her self-serving statements. As for lost future earning capacity, Claimant did not present any independent evidence of her future earning capacity other than her self-serving testimony that she is paid less and will always be paid less. As such her lost wage claim beyond the twenty-one week period of bed rest is too speculative. Claimant is awarded $15,098.79.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Claimant's claim is granted. She is awarded $115,098.79 in total damages. Reducing this by her 25% contributory negligence results in $86,324.09 awarded to Claimant.

Steffen, J.

This claim was brought by Ronald Topczewski, after a pothole incident which took place on March 1, 2007 on Narragansett Ave, in the City of Chicago. The Claimant is seeking $386.00 for the damage to his vehicle due to the alleged failure of the State to maintain its highway in a reasonably safe condition. This case was heard on November 20, 2008, as a small claim case under Illinois Supreme Court Rule 286B.

Factual Background

This claim arises out of a car accident that occurred on March 1, 2001 on 3900 N. Narragansett Ave. Claimant first filed the claim with the City of Chicago on March 6th, 2007 but it was denied because the roadway in question belongs to State of Illinois. On June 23rd, 2007 Claimant filed the claim with the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT). IDOT checked its records from Dec. 1st, 2006 until March 2nd, 2007 and found no pothole complaints regarding the location in question. On October 18, 2007 IDOT sent Claimant a denial letter. Claimant then filed the instant claim in the Illinois Court of Claims on October 31st, 2007.

At the hearing, Claimant testified that on March 1, 2007 around 8:15 pm, he was traveling south on Narragansett Ave. when he hit a pothole while traveling in the curb lane at 3900N, damaging his 2003 Cadillac Deville. The Claimant described the pothole as approximately two feet in diameter. The pictures Claimant provided show that the pothole at the location in question was large and the roadway generally in bad condition. Although the Respondent testified that there were no previous pothole complaints for the three-month period preceding the accident, it was unable to provide any information regarding when IDOT last inspected the location where the incident occurred.

Claimant testified that he paid $386 to replace a damaged rim and tire from the pothole accident and provided a paid receipt from Central Chicago Tire & Wheel in support of his claim.

Analysis

The state has a duty to maintain its highways in a reasonably safe condition Blair v. State (1994), 47 Ill. Ct. Cl. 242, 242-43. However, the State is not an insurer against all accidents occurring due to the condition of its highways Scroggins v. State (1991), 43 Ill. Ct. Cl. 225, 226. To prevail in a negligence action, Claimant must prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that: (1) the State breached its duty of reasonable care, (2) the State's negligence was the proximate cause of the injury, (3) a dangerous condition or defect existed, and (4) the State had actual or constructive notice of the condition Id. at 227. Hanawell v. State (1995), 47 Ill. Ct. Cl. 270, 275.

Respondent's evidence establishes that there were no prior pothole complaints. Accordingly, we find that the State did not have actual notice of the potholes. Thus, we must determine if Respondent had constructive notice. The Court will impute constructive notice to a respondent where a preponderance of the evidence establishes that the defect was of such a nature that the State, in the exercise of due diligence, should have known it existed Hanawell v. State, at 275. To prove that Respondent had constructive notice of the pothole, Claimant must show by a preponderance of the evidence that the pothole: (1) was substantial enough that immediate repairs should be made, and (2) existed for such a length of time that a reasonable person would have had an opportunity to make the repairs Aetna Casualty v. State (1984), 37 Ill. Ct. Cl. 179, 181.

Claimant provided information about the pothole at the location in question. He went to the location in question the day after and took pictures of the pothole. It is evident from the pictures that the roadway at the location in question had potholes and many cracks and was very rough in texture, requiring immediate repairs.

The Respondent testified that it had no information as to when IDOT had last inspected the location in question, but the potholes at the location, if observed by IDOT, should have been filled. From the testimony and exhibits it can be inferred that the pothole existed at the location in question for such a length of time that a reasonable person would have had an opportunity to repair it.

Accordingly, Claimant has established that State was negligent in maintaining its highways in a reasonably safe condition. Claimant's claim of $386.00 is awarded.

OPINION

Storino, J.

This claim is before the Court by way of evidentiary hearing conducted December 2, 2008 at Springfield, Illinois before Commissioner Murphy utilizing video teleconferencing with Menard Correctional Center (“Menard”).

Claimant, Steven Lisle, Jr., an inmate with the Illinois Department of Corrections (“IDOC”), while incarcerated at Menard on August 9, 2007, was given a disciplinary ticket for disobeying a direct order and other offenses. On August 21, 2007, Claimant filed a grievance requesting a polygraph test, dismissal of the ticket, release from segregation, investigation and possible transfer for his own safety. Claimant also filed subsequent grievances dated September 12, 13 and 18, 2007, requesting transfer because of counselor neglect and medical neglect of his foot condition. Claimant’s grievance was denied on October 3, 2007. There is no record from the Administrative Review Board but the record does contain writings from Claimant requesting an appeal. Claimant filed this Complaint on November 13, 2007, with no specific allegations written in the Complaint other than he suffered mental anguish, fear and paranoia, sharp pain in his left arm, veins and nerves. Claimant seeks compensation in the amount of $10,000.

Facts

Claimant testified at hearing that Menard policy requires accuracy in written disciplinary reports and Officer Robinson did not write an accurate report because he left out information regarding a video camera tape. Further, Claimant alleges he was refused medical attention. After his mother called to complain, Internal Affairs investigated and found the tape, reviewed it out of Claimant's presence and determined that Claimant was not assaulted. Claimant was never allowed to view the tape. Claimant then wrote to the warden about the assault and requested a polygraph test. Claimant believes the fact that the Officer failed to reference the tape in his disciplinary report evidences a cover-up of the assault. Claimant feels that his life is threatened and that it is unprofessional of the Warden not to talk to him or give him a polygraph.

According to Claimant, his lip and nose were injured, and he was bleeding as a result of the assault by staff while he was naked. A doctor cleaned him up while the tape was off. Claimant also testified that the staff used excessive force during the assault and would not let him speak. He believes the doctor was part of the cover-up too. Claimant made general allegations that he was refused healthcare according to policy and suffered boils and bumps on his feet from being left in segregation with no shoes. A CMT, known as Jack, only joked about Claimant's request for medical attention. Claimant provided an Affidavit signed by Damian Jones who witnessed CMT Jack's remarks to Claimant.

Claimant further testified that his medical history required a "one gallery only" pass that had been ordered by one of the head doctors, and alleges that Menard blatantly disregarded that order.

Upon cross-examination, Claimant agreed that the doctor's order was from 2004 and this incident occurred in 2007. Claimant does not have anything that reflects a more recent low gallery order for 2007. Claimant is complaining about problems with his feet because he had no shoes in segregation which was after the alleged assault on August 9, 2007. Claimant denies that he refused to follow orders and claims that he did not receive medical care the night of the staff assault on video. Upon further questioning, Claimant agreed that he did see the doctor that night but the progress report is not accurate. Claimant denied that he had been found guilty of false information in the past.

Respondent called no witnesses. The Combined Rule 55 Discovery and Departmental Report were admitted into evidence as well as exhibits attached to Claimant's Complaint.

Legal Analysis

This Court has long held that it is not the role of the Court to act as a reviewing Court over the administration of prison regulations, except in cases where there may be proof of violation of existing regulations that tend to establish liability of respondent under recognized principles of tort law. See Montgomery v. State, 41 Ill. Ct. Cl. 190 (1988); Brady v. State, 32 Ill. Ct. Cl. 240 (1977); Holmes v. State, 32 Ill. Ct. Cl. 274 (1978).

Here, Claimant's allegations are the Officer failed to properly write a disciplinary report, he was assaulted by staff, refused proper medical care, suffered injury to his feet by being placed in segregation without shoes and was denied the opportunity to provide a polygraph test and be transferred to another institution. A review of the record shows that Claimant was found guilty of insolence, intimidations/threats and disobeying a direct order on August 9, 2007 pursuant to administrative rules and regulations. The allegations of staff assault on Claimant were investigated by Internal Affairs according to policy. Further, Claimant did receive medical care after a cell extraction on August 9, 2007. This Court notes that it is the practice of Menard to videotape cell extractions and discontinue taping during the administration of healthcare in strict compliance with privacy laws. Regarding medical care, notations in the medical record show Claimant may have been bleeding from his lip, but due to his lack of cooperation, assessment was not possible. There is no record of injury that would substantiate excessive force or that Menard failed to follow proper administrative policies. Further, Claimant does not have a unique entitlement to a polygraph test or a transfer upon his request.

CONCLUSION

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, for the above reasons, that Claimant's claim is denied and his Complaint is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

OPINION

Reid, J.

This claim is before the Court by way of evidentiary hearing conducted December 2, 2008 at Springfield, Illinois before Commissioner Murphy utilizing video teleconferencing.

Claimant Gregory D. Wilkins, an inmate with the Illinois Department of Corrections, while incarcerated at Western Illinois Correctional Center on October 18, 2006 heard his television crash at 2:00 a.m. while he was sleeping. He filed a grievance on October 19, 2008 seeking replacement of his television or a reimbursement. Claimant's grievance was denied on November 12, 2006 and his appeal was denied on March 14, 2007. This Complaint was filed December 21, 2007 seeking $140.00 as reimbursement for his television.

Facts

Claimant testified at hearing that he was asleep in his cell at 2:00 a.m. on October 18, 2006 when he was awakened to a loud crash. He saw his television on the floor along with the shelf it had been placed upon. When he picked up everything, he noticed there were no screws to hold the shelf in place. He filed a grievance which was denied. According to Claimant, the grievance officer found staff negligent but still denied his claim. The counselor's response to his grievance included a statement that the head maintenance assistant engineer found the shelf had been pulled off the wall due to excessive weight, yet the television alone is not heavy enough to cause the shelf to break.

Upon cross-examination, Claimant testified that he purchased the television in March, 2006 and he was in a locked cell when the television fell at 2:00 a.m.

Respondent called Mr. Bruce Hedden, Assistant Chief Engineer at Western Illinois Correctional Center, to testify. Mr. Hedden has been with the Illinois Department of Corrections for 19 years and has been in his current position since 1995. He has an Associate's Degree in civil engineering and he is also a licensed plumber in Illinois. In October, 2006 Mr. Hedden was familiar with the furniture or fixtures in the inmates' cells. His maintenance staff repairs those shelving units from time to time. They are approximately 8' long, 5' tall and 12 inches deep made of industrial grade flakeboard with plastic laminate attached to the walls with anchors installed during construction. The bolts go all the way through the wall. The shelves are intended for storing an inmate's personal property, including television sets. Mr. Hedden is aware from other inmates that sometimes the shelves are used by inmates to get down from a top bunk, putting all their weight on the shelf. The shelving units are strong enough to support a standard issue television. When the facility began using double cells, they modified the shelves by adding a plywood shelf to the top of the unit. The television sets are 14½" so they extend beyond the shelving by 2½". Mr. Hedden's department performs its duties on a work order system. He did not have record of a work order to repair the shelving unit in Claimant's cell prior to October 18, 2006.

Upon cross-examination by Claimant, Mr. Hedden testified that he was not the person who inspected Claimant's cell and he does not know of any evidence of tampering nor a work order placed prior to October 18, 2006. Mr. Hedden's staff reinstalled the shelf and he does not know who was in Claimant's cell prior to Claimant.

According to claimant, when the shelf crashed, it held his television, a coffee cup and a soap dish.

Legal Analysis

Claimant seeks reimbursement for his television alleging Respondent's negligence by failing to properly maintain its shelving sufficient to support the weight of his television. There is no issue whether Claimant owned the television. The only issue is whether Respondent can be held liable for the destruction of Claimant's television when it fell during the early morning hours of October 18, 2006.

Unfortunately, it is impossible to know the exact cause of the shelving failure. Respondent's witness, Mr. Hedden, testified that the shelves are designed to support the weight of a television and that he had no notice of any defect in the shelves at issue. Although Mr. Hedden may be aware of particular types of misuse by some inmates when they apply body weight, that does not appear to be the issue here since the shelf was at a lower level, according to Claimant. Mr. Hedden testified that the shelf at issue failed due to excessive weight, and a television alone is not enough to cause the failure.

Claimant has produced no evidence of Respondent's negligence by failing to maintain its shelving in his cell other than his observation that no screws were found. This alone is not enough to substantiate any claim of negligence, and particularly with no notice to Respondent of the alleged defect.

CONCLUSION

For the above reasons, claimant's Complaint is denied.

KENNETTA NEWMAN-DIXON, Claimant, v. STATE OF ILLINOIS, Respondent.

Opinion filed December 5, 2008

KENNETTA NEWMAN-DIXON, pro se
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (COREY-ANNE GULKEWICZ, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent.

Limitations-Missing person-homicide-Pursuant to §6 1(a) of the crime Victims Compensation Act, a person must file a claim within two years of the occurrence of the crime or within one year after a criminal indictment of a person for an offense upon which the claim is based. The victim could not be identified until a DNA analysis occurred on the skeletal remains that were found in 2008, although the victim was most likely killed in 1997. Claimant met the requirements of the Act by applying within two years of the issuance of the certificate of death.

O P I N I O N

Storino, J.

This claim arises out of an incident that was discovered on March 4, 2008. Kennetta Newman-Dixon, sister of the deceased victim, Mary A. Dunbar, seeks compensation pursuant to the provisions of the Crime Victims Compensation Act, hereafter referred to as the Act, 740 ILCS 45/1, et seq (2000).

This Court has carefully considered the application for benefits submitted on Wednesday, March 12, 2008, on the form prescribed by the Illinois Attorney General, and an investigatory report of the Illinois Attorney General which substantiates matters set forth in the application. Based upon these documents and other evidence submitted to the Illinois Attorney General's Office, the Court finds:

1. That on Monday, July 14, 1997, the victim, Mary A. Dunbar, age 25, was reported as a missing person by her family. On September 22, 1999, skeletal remains were discovered in Pembroke Township. Because the identity of the remains was unknown, in 2001, DNA was submitted for analysis. On February 29, 2008, the claimant and other family members were notified that the remains were determined to be those of Mary A. Dunbar. On March 5, 2008, a Medical Examiner's – Coroner's Certificate of Death was issued stating that the remains found on September 22, 1999 were those of Mary A. Dunbar. The death certificate further stated that the immediate cause of death was a gunshot wound to the head and classified the death as a homicide.

2. That pursuant to §6 1(a) of the Act, a person is entitled to compensation under the Act if within 2 years of the occurrence of the crime, or within one year after a criminal indictment of a person for an offense, upon which the claim is based, he files an application, under oath, with the Court of Claims and on a form prescribed in accordance with Section 7 1 furnished by the Attorney General.

3. That available evidence indicates that the victim was most likely killed sometime in 1997. However, a death certificate linking the remains to the victim was not issued until March 5, 2008. In In re Application of Carol McLuckie, 52 Ill. Ct. Cl. 669 (1999 ), the Court of Claims applied the judicially created “discovery rule” to the requirement that a claim be timely filed. The Court stated that “the discovery rule as developed by common law requires both knowledge of the injury and its wrongful cause before the statute of limitations begins to run”. The Court noted that the discovery rule could apply where “the plaintiff had provided a well articulated explanation of why it was impossible to discover her injury sooner”.

4. That the victim could not be identified until analysis of DNA was completed on the skeletal remains. During the time period when the skeletal remains were found and the victim was identified, the claimant was in contact with the Kankakee Police Department to see if the remains were determined to be those of her sister, Mary A. Dunbar. The claimant could not have known prior to notification by the police department and the coroner whether or not the remains were those of her sister. Therefore, the claimant has met the requirements of §6 1(a) of the Act by applying within two years of the issuance of the coroner’s certificate of death.

5. That the crime occurred in Illinois, and all of the eligibility requirements of §6 1 of the Act have been met.

6. That the claimant seeks compensation for funeral/burial expenses.

7. That pursuant to §10 1(c) of the Act, any person may be compensated for reasonable funeral expenses of the victim to the extent to which he or she has paid or become obligated to pay such expenses.

8. That the claimant incurred funeral/burial expenses in the amount of $2,603.06, none of which has been paid to date.

9. That the claimant has received no reimbursements that can be counted as an applicable deduction under §10.1(e) of the Act.

10. That the claimant’s net loss can be determined on the following:

Compensable Amount

Jones Funeral Home

$2,603.06

11. That pursuant to §18(c) of the Act, the Court may order that all or a portion of an award be paid solely and directly to the provider of services. In the instant case, the Court finds this section applicable and orders that direct payment be made.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the sum of $2,603.06 (TWO THOUSAND SIX HUNDRED THREE DOLLARS AND SIX CENTS) be and is hereby awarded to Jones funeral Home for the funeral/burial expenses incurred by Kennetta Newman-Dixon, sister of Mary A. Dunbar, an innocent victim of a violent crime.

CHRISTOPHER KENNEDY, Claimant, v. ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT CORRECTIONS, Respondent

Opinion filed February 3, 2009

CHRISTOPHER KENNEDY, pro se
LISA MADIGAN, Attorney General (LYNN PALMGREN, Assistant Attorney General, of counsel), for Respondent

Jurisdiction-Sheriff, County Clerk or State’s Attorney, State cannot be held liable for the actions of Jurisdiction-County jail not a State facility-no jurisdiction

Negligence-Jurisdiction-The State cannot be held vicariously liable for the actions of a Sheriff, County Clerk or State’s Attorney, nor does it have jurisdiction over those officials.

Jurisdiction-The only proper respondent before the Court of Claims is the State of Illinois, and the divisions thereof. The Macon County jail is a county facility and not a State of Illinois one, therefore, there is no jurisdiction for a claim against them.

ORDER

Birnbaum, J.

This matter coming before the Court to be heard on Respondent’s Motion to Dismiss. Claimant has also filed a request for additional time to respond to this motion. The Court being fully advised in the premises finds that:

BACKGROUND

On August 1, 2008, Claimant filed a complaint in the Court of Claims against the Respondent State of Illinois seeking $100,000.00 in damages. In his Complaint, Claimant alleges that while he was in the custody of Macon County Jail, in Decatur, Illinois, he was assaulted and battered by another inmate on November 23, 2007. Claimant alleges that employees at the Macon County Jail were “deliberately indifferent to [his] constitutional rights because they acted with reckless disregard of my right to be free from violent attacks by fellow inmates.”

ANALYSIS

This Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction in regards to Claimant’s alleged claim against the Macon County Jail and any of its employees. This Court has ruled on the issue of whether the State can be held liable for negligent acts of county public officials. Sherry v. State, 55 Ill.Ct.Cl. 437 (2002) (involving Sheriff's Department of Kane County, County of Kane, and State's Attorney of Kane County); Alencastro v. State, 54 Ill.Ct.Cl. 457 (2001) (involving Sheriff Cook County); Washington v. State (involving State's Attorney of Cook County) and Washlow v. State (involving Clerk of the Circuit Court of Livingston County), 54 Ill.Ct.Cl. 317 (2001).

In all of these cases, this Court has consistently held that under the current statutory and constitutional strictures governing the Court, the State cannot be held vicariously liable for the actions of a Sheriff, County Clerk or State's Attorney, nor does it have jurisdiction over those officials.

This Court has exclusive and limited jurisdiction over claims against the State of Illinois, and only the State, as set forth in the Court of Claims Act, 705 ILCS 505/1 et seq. The only proper Respondent before the Court of Claims is the State of Illinois, and the divisions thereof. 74 Ill. Admin. Code 790.40(a). The Macon County Jail is a county correctional facility, not a State of Illinois correctional facility. Therefore, this Court lacks jurisdiction over Claimant's alleged claim against the Macon County Jail. Because this cause fails on jurisdictional grounds, the interests of justice will not be served by granting Claimant additional time to respond.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that Claimant's Motion is DENIED and Respondent's Motion be hereby GRANTED, and the claim herein is DISMISSED, WITH PREJUDICE.

PRISONERS AND INMATES

MISSING PROPERTY CLAIMS

FY 2009

The following list of cases consists of claims brought by prisoners and inmates of State correctional facilities against the State to recover the value of certain items of personal property of which they allegedly possessed while incarcerated, but which were allegedly lost while the State was in possession thereof or for which the State was allegedly otherwise responsible. Consistent with the cases involving the same subject matter appearing in full in previous Court of Claims Reports, these claims were all decided based upon the theories of bailments, conversion, or negligence. Because of the volume, length, and general similarity of the opinions, the full texts of the opinions were not published, except for those claims which may have some precedential value.
