

For Immediate Release:
March 2, 2015

For More Information Contact:
Alicia McGhee
Beth Kaufman

Jesse White Honors Emmy-Award Winning Broadcasters Art Norman and Robin Robinson, and Chicago Legend Colonel Eugene Scott at African-American Heritage Month Celebration

Illinois Secretary of State Jesse White honored Emmy Award-winning broadcasting pioneers Art Norman and Robin Robinson at the office's 2015 African-American Heritage Month Celebration at the James R. Thompson Center. Norman served as the keynote speaker for the program, and Fox 32 News Chicago anchors Jon Kelley and Dawn Hasbrouck were the emcees. The event also honored Chicago Defender Charities President Colonel Eugene F. Scott, family matriarch Rosetta Browley and the late president of the Illinois Literacy Foundation, Anthony Taylor. Governor Bruce Rauner made a special appearance (as pictured above).

The Secretary of State's annual ceremony celebrates the contributions of African-Americans in the state of Illinois every year in February.

(-more-)

Secretary White (second from right) with Emmy Award-winning news anchor Art Norman and emcees Jon Kelley and Dawn Hasbrouck.

Secretary White honored Rosetta Browley (front, center) with the Community Achievement Award to celebrate her legacy as a single parent of 12 children, pictured here.

- # -